

PRESIDENT GIVES DROUTH FUND 10%
OF YEAR'S SALARY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—
RESIDENT HOOVER today gave 10 per cent of his annual salary to the Red Cross for the drouth sufferers.
His salary as President is $75,000 and his personal gift $7,500.
The drouth fund now totals
$7,303,116 of the $10,000,000 asked for by the Red Cross.
Progress of the Red Cross relief fund will be reported on by a country-wide radio broadcast
Thursday from 8:30 to 9 a. m., St. Louis time, in a program arranged by the National Broadcasting Co.

BOY KILLED WHEN CAVE
FALLS IN, ANOTHER INJURED

Third Child Escapes in Accident at Washington, Mo., and Gets Help.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Mo., Feb. 11.—
Jack Harris, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Harris, was fatally crushed and suffocated and Raleigh Jett, 5, his playmate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jett, was seriously injured at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon when about 10 tons of earth collapsed on them while they were digging a cave in a hillside on West Main street. Leo Zimmer, who was caught with them, crawled out uninjured.
The Zimmer boy said they had been digging in the hillside with wooden implements, and had made a small cave. He said he had entered the hole, with the other two after him, when the roof caved in.
He was far enough in so that the earth failed to fall on him, but buried his companions.
The Zimmer boy dug his way out through the loose soil, and called for help. A large crowd of volunteers immediately removed the earth from the buried children, but Harris was dead. Raleigh Jett was taken to St. Francis Hospital.

The other day the opera was

19 MISSING AFTER JAPANESE STEAMER IS SUNK IN FOG

Vessel Carrying New Year Celebrators Goes Down in Collision at Sea.
By the Associated Press.
KOBE, Japan, Feb. 10.—Boats searching the waters of the Japanese coast last night in a storm picked up 30 persons who had been thought to be lost in the sinking of the Japanese steamer Ki-kusi Maru yesterday after a collision with the French steamer Porthos. Nineteen on board are unaccounted for.
The Kikusi Maru was bound for Shodo Island in the Sea of Harima with Japanese returning to celebrate with their families the Japanese new year when the collision occurred in the dense fog.
The Kikusi Maru was sunk.
The Porthos rescued 25 persons and landed them at Kobe today.
Other vessels picked up additional survivors off Hyogo prefecture at the northern tip of Awaji Island.
The nineteen missing include women and children from factories of Osaka.

CARMELITE MOTHER SUPERIOR
ARRESTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Sister Madeleine of Malines Accused of Misappropriating $275,000 in Five Years.
By the Associated Press.
BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 10.—
Sister Madeleine, mother superior of the Carmelite Convent at Malines, was arrested yesterday charged with embezzlement of $275,000 over a period of five years.
She is said to have borrowed from all walks of life, paying old debts with proceeds of new loans and always increasing the amount borrowed, thus financing the purchase of a mansion, erection of a wall around the convent, and other works.

DRY INVESTIGATOR TO URGE TRANSFER OF CHIEF DILLON

Dismissal of Agents Byrd and Padfield Also to Be Advised by J. B. Madden, Administrator's Aid.

SHIFT OF MOST OF LOCAL FORCE LIKELY

Check-Up Follows Criticism by Grand Jury—Thad Rowden, Kansas City, May Come Here.

Transfer of James Dillon, in charge of the St. Louis prohibition enforcement office, to another district, and the discharge from the service of Agents Carol Byrd and Merritt D. Padfield, will be recommended by John B. Madden, assistant administrator, to George H.
Wark, prohibition administrator for the Ninth District, it is understood at the Federal Building.

It is expected also that the transfer of most of the members of the local enforcement squad will be recommended.
Madden, who arrived here yesterday to investigate the complaint made by the Federal grand jury against the St. Louis prohibition unit, left for Kansas City today to report to Administrator Wark.

When asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter as to the result of his inquiries, Madden replied that he had nothing to say, except that he had learned enough in two and a half hours in St. Louis to form the basis for very definite recommendations to the District Administrator.

Sees Grand Jury Foreman

Madden is known to have spent an hour with John J. Griffin, foreman of the Federal grand jury, which made its report last Friday.
The report stated that the prohibition agents here were giving too much time to a large number of small cases, and were not getting proper results in striking at the source of supply of illicit liquor.

The grand jury also censured Agents Byrd and Padfield, and said that their transfer to another district was an act of unfairness to the district to which they went.
The report stated that the grand jury had refused to hear testimony offered by Byrd and Padfield.

No Charge Against Dillon

No charge is made against Dillon, except that his work has not shown the desired degree of effectiveness, and it is felt that he could do better in a new field. It is considered likely that Thad Rowden, Chief Deputy Administrator in Kansas City, formerly a deputy here, will be placed in charge of the St. Louis office if Dillon leaves.
Dillon succeeded William Goshorn in charge of the local office. He was a gauger for the internal Revenue Department in the distilleries at Peoria, Ill., before national prohibition, and was shifted automatically to prohibition enforcement, when that branch of service was under the Department of the Treasury.

$37.11 LOWEST PER CAPITA CIRCULATION SINCE 1914

U. S. Treasury Statement Shows
$4,009,881,106 in Hands of 124-230,000 Persons in January.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The per capita circulation of money in the United States reached the lowest point since 1914 during January when it dropped to $37.11, figured on a basis of a population of 124,230,000.
The monthly circulation statement of the Treasury yesterday showed that during January a total of $4,009,881,106 was in circulation as compared with $4,890-123,484 in December. In January, 1930, $4,562,027,826 was in circulation.
The only time in recent years the per capita circulation has been lower than last month was in June, 1914, when it dropped to $34.92.
The lowest per capita circulation recorded was on Jan. 1, 1919, when it was $16.92.

MAYOR WARNS AGAINST PASSING GARY TAX BILLS

In Letter He Urges "Less Haste and More Study" —Finds Indignation Generally Aroused.

SPECIAL TRIP TO CAPITAL TOMORROW

Business Men of St. Louis to Protest Against "Unjust, Unreasonable and Unfair" Measures.

Mayor Miller today sent a letter of protest against the Gary tax bill to Gov. Caulfield and to the Senate and House of Representatives at Jefferson City. The letter to the Senate was addressed to Senator Lon Haynes, president pro tem, and that to the House to Speaker Eugene W. Nelson.

Asking for "less haste and more study of the factual side of this tax measure" the Mayor said, "No contemplated legislation in my experience has so generally aroused indignation locally."

This followed a luncheon meeting of about 500 business men under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, at which a resolution of protest was adopted and plans were made for a large delegation to go to Jefferson City tomorrow by special train to voice the objections of St. Louis to the huge tax increases provided in the Gary bills, the burden of which would fall principally on St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph.

Plans for Capital Trip

The Chamber of Commerce reported today that many reservations were being received for the Jefferson City trip. The special train, for which the round trip fare is $5, exclusive of Pullman charges, will depart from Union Station at 10 a. m. tomorrow and make stops to pick up passengers at Tower Grove, 10:08; Maplewood, 10:18; Webster Groves, 10:24; and Kirkwood, 10:38. Returning, it will leave Jefferson City at 2:25
a. m. Thursday, arriving in St.
Louis at 6:55 a. m.

Plans of the Associated Industries of Missouri to run another special train were abandoned in order to keep the delegation together on one train.

Mayor Miller's letter follows:

"As Mayor of the City of St.
Louis, I feel it is my official duty to call to your attention the damage about to be done to the citizens of St. Louis, particularly wage earners, and to the general business prosperity of the State, through the so-called Gary tax measures."

"No contemplated legislation in my experience has so penalized a large section of the people, or so generally aroused indignation locally."

"St. Louis is too handy to another State to expect business in any great proportion to stand for exorbitant State tax burdens."

"Taxes must be added by the manufacturer to the cost of goods.
For St. Louis to try to compete successfully with Illinois if these bills pass, is unthinkable. Illinois has no income tax and no corporation franchise tax on surplus and borrowed capital. St. Louis has both, and to the present handicap these bills will add individual income taxes of $9,476,797, corporation income tax of at least $1,000,000, and increased franchise taxes of $1,000-000 to St. Louis firms and individuals the first year."

Less Haste, More Study.

"The city of St. Louis, therefore, would like to officially request that less haste and more study be made of the factual side of these tax measures, that the state's largest city may not be forced into industrial cessation and further unemployment hardships."

"The speed with which the proponents have l-bued the Legislature is convincing enough that it would serve the better part of wisdom to analyze and answer these drastic charges of business annihilation before perpetrating such a measure on the people of Missouri."

"These measures would leave very little for St. Louis, now a thriving industrial city, and to the nation, to offer a inducement to national concerns to locate and bring vast payrolls to augment the city's and state's prosperity."

The resolution adopted at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon denounced the tax bills as "unjust, unreasonable and unfair" measures which are being "jammed and railroaded through the House of Representatives."

Walter B. Weisenburger, president of the Chamber of Commerce, in a short talk, said the measures were "unjust, unreasonable and unfair" and that they would "jammed and railroaded through the House of Representatives."

DAISY DE BOE GETS
18 MONTHS IN JAIL

Court Suspends Penitentiary Sentence for Theft From Clara Bow.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 10.— Daisy De Boe, former secretary of Clara Bow, movie actress, was granted probation from a prison term by Judge William Doran today but she must spend 18 months in the county jail. She recently was convicted of the theft of more than $800 from the actress.

The remainder of a five-year period she will be at liberty under supervision of the County Probation Officer.

The Court's decision was prefaced by a request from Miss De Boe's counsel that she be permitted to withdraw her application for probation made on Feb. 2 following her conviction.

Miss De Boe stood firmly and looked intently at the Court as Judge Doran quietly announced his decision.

After the Court had told her she would not have to serve a possible prison term of one to 10 years, she looked at her attorney, William Belmont, for an instant, and then apparently resigning herself to the Court's judgment she walked from the courtroom to begin her term in the county jail. No attempt was made to appeal the motion for a new trial, denied a week ago.

One of the largest crowds of the season was attracted to the courthouse.

Before pronouncing sentence
Judge Doran told Miss De Boe:
"You conducted systematic raids on the funds of Miss Bow for some length of time."

The original charges against the former secretary who came here seven years ago from St. Louis, accused her of stealing $10,000 from the actress over a period of nearly a year and a half.

SENTENCED TO 40 YEARS
11 HOURS AFTER BANK HOLDUP

Missouri, 21, Captured and Loot of $27 Recovered Short Time After Robbery at Crocker, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

WAYNESVILLE, Mo., Feb. 10.—
Eleven hours after he had robbed the Bank of Crocker of $27, Athol Willis, 21 years old, son of a prominent Crocker family, stood before Circuit Judge J. H. Bowron last night and was sentenced to 40 years in the State penitentiary.

Shortly after the robbery, which occurred at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, Willis was captured north of here and the money was recovered. Ray W. Reed, vice president, was in the bank when the robber entered and forced him to hand over the money. The robber then fled in a stolen automobile.

Hoover's Wedding Anniversary

HOOVER SIGNS WAGNER BILL AND CALLS IT 'ADMIRABLE'

Advance Planning of Public Works Provided to Combat Evils of Unemployment.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—President Hoover has signed the Wagner bill which provides for advance planning of public works as a means of combating the evils of unemployment.

Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, and Representative Graham (Rep.), Pennsylvania, had worked out an admirable bill, the President said, and he approved it "with a great deal of pleasure."

"The bill is not a cure for depression," he said, "but it provides for better organization of relief."

In making his announcement, Hoover said that he wished to give credit to two men who had furnished a great many of the ideas incorporated in the legislation. The two were Edward Hugh, economist for the Commerce Department, and Otto Mallory of Harrisburg, Pa.

3 MEN FIRE
ON W. GOEBEL WHO TALKED OF REVENGE

Police Link Attack in Back Room of Saloon at Taylor and Easton With Murder of Dewey Goebel on 'The Hill' Last Nov. 22

ANOTHER BROTHER
DUCKS OUT OF SIGHT

Assassins Molest No One but Victim and Mrs. Bessie Lynam and Mrs. Dorothy Evans, at Tables With Him.

Mrs. Bessie Lynam and Mrs.
Dorothy Evans, both convicted shoplifters, were killed and William Goebel was wounded, probably fatally, when three gunmen invaded a saloon at Taylor and Easton avenues early today and shot the three as they sat at tables in a partitioned section at the rear of the barroom.
Lacking definite information, police inclined to the theory that the slayers visited the saloon to kill Goebel, a brother of Dewey Goebel, gunman and extortionist, who was assassinated Nov. 22 in the Italian district known as "The Hill." William Goebel is said to have voiced threats of retaliation.
Others Not Molested.

Another brother, Harry Goebel, a bartender in the saloon, who left the group to admit the slayers to the barroom, hid under the bar during the shooting. Clyde Futrell, the saloonkeeper, and two customers, said they were unmolested except for the command, "Stick 'em up," as the gunmen strode through the barroom.

The gunmen, described as darkskinned, each wearing a derby hat and a dark overcoat and carrying a revolver, entered through the front door of the saloon at 1508 North Taylor, a few doors from the corner, and after the murders fled through the rear door into the alley. William Goebel, in a brief statement to police, said he did not know the men or why they shot him. Harry Goebel, who said the gunmen were strangers to him, described the shooting.

"Mrs. Lynam had dropped in to see me and brought her friend with her," Harry Goebel related to reporters. "I put them in the back room, and my brother sat down at a table with Mrs. Evans while I sat at the table nearest the door with Mrs. Lynam."

"Acted Like Detectives."
"A couple of fellows were at the bar and the boss was doing in a chair when I heard somebody at the front door about 2 o'clock. I went out and asked them through the glass what they wanted and they shouted 'Open up!' like they were detectives. I unlocked the door and they pushed in with their guns out."

"Right away they shouted 'Stick
'em up' and I ran behind the bar and threw myself on the floor. A minute later I heard about 10 shots and then the back door slammed as they went out. Nobody said a word."

Futrell and the customers, Paul Hennessy, a plumber, and Charles Redding, a painter, corroborated Goebel's story. Futrell said he was half asleep and did not realize what was happening until the firing started. Hennessy and Redding said they raised their hands at the bar and did not turn around.

In the rear compartment, a space measuring about six by 15 feet and containing three tables concealed by a partition of wood and leaded glass, police found the two women and Goebel lying on the floor. Apparently they had been shot at close range while they faced the curtained entrance, and had fallen from their chairs.

Mrs. Lynam was shot once in the breast; Mrs. Evans once in the back.

SAYS NEW ALTERED POSTAL LEASE AT BEHEST OF GOOD

Deputy to First Assistant Postmaster-General Tells Senators of Change in St. Paul Contract.

CARRIED OUT ORDER IMMEDIATELY

Bartlett Testifies He Was Directed to Prepare Condemnation Suit After Grand Jury Convened.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Two former cabinet members were called before the Senate committee investigating postoffice leases today of "chloroforming" a Federal grand jury investigating into the notorious St. Paul postoffice lease, and a former First Assistant Postmaster-General testified he had unknowingly permitted himself to be used in the scheme to "defeat the administration of justice."

The hearing dealt in part with events already disclosed, including to show that heavy political pressure was exerted in 1928 to prevent indictments which threatened to play havoc with the Republican campaign in Western states.

Accusations of duplicity and falsehood enlivened the hearing, and the committee learned of a mysterious letter which the Postmaster-General caused his first assistant to deliver personally in Chicago to a lawyer representing one of the largest professional bidders for postoffice leases. The time was July, 1928; the Postmaster-General was Harry New, and the lawyer was the late James W. Good, who subsequently became Secretary of War in President Hoover's cabinet.

The St. Paul commercial post-office station was leased to the Government in 1921 by Jacob Kulp, a Chicago promoter, for an annual rental of $120,775, the Government retaining the right to cancel the lease. Three years later Good, acting as Kulp's lawyer, induced the Government to agree to the cancellation privilege in return for a reduction of $77,000 a year in the rent.

A Federal grand jury investigated in 1928, and reported that the transaction was saturated with fraud. Court appraisers fixed the value of the leased building at $334,000, and indictments seemed imminent. At that time Good had become Western manager of President Hoover's campaign.

Some of the circumstances attending the changing of the lease were described today by Charles F. Trotter, who at that time was deputy to first assistant Postmaster-General Bartlett.

Says Good Sought Change. "Mr. Good came to see me about October, 1924, and wanted to get the cancellation clause stricken out of the St. Paul lease," he said. "He told me they were refinancing or something like that, and that it would be impossible to sell the bonds if the cancellation clause remained. I told him I did not believe Comptroller-General McCall would stand for a change like that unless the Government received some very substantial and immediate benefit in return."

"Two months later I was called into Postmaster-General New's office. Mr. Good was sitting there. Gen. New handed me a letter from Mr. Good, applying for a new contract on the St. Paul building, omitting the cancellation clause, and promising a reduction in the rent of $77,000 a year. Mr. Good remarked to me that he had seen Comptroller McCall, and that he had approved the change. Mr. New directed me to execute the new lease at once—that day."

"Were those instructions final where you and Mr. Bartlett were concerned?" Chairman Blaine. "Yes, that closed the matter. There was nothing for us to do but comply with the Postmaster-General's instructions."

New to Be Called As Witness. Blaine stated that Comptroller-General McCall is prepared to testify that he never approved the change in the St. Paul lease, and would have disapproved it if it had been submitted to him. Blaine also announced that New, now a private citizen residing in nearby Maryland, has offered to testify and will probably be called next week.

Bartlett told of being directed by New to go to St. Paul in 1928, when the grand jury investigation was at its height. Bartlett had repeatedly registered his disapproval of the transaction, and had urged condemnation proceedings to acquire the St. Paul building. New, he said, resisted this suggestion until the grand jury investigation was under way. Then he directed Bartlett to proceed with them.

"To whom?" "To Mr. Good."

"Did he explain what it was about?" "He made no comment at all."

"It was not a customary thing for the first assistant Postmaster-General to be used as a letter carrier?" "Certainly not."

Blaine asked Bartlett if he realized that his procedure in starting condemnation proceedings at St. Paul had the effect of quieting the postoffice scandal and softening the demand for criminal prosecutions in connection with the lease. The witness pointed out that he had always favored condemnation, and therefore was taking no new stand.

"But don't you realize now," insisted Blaine, "that you were part of a scheme to chloroform the grand jury investigation and defeat the administration of justice?" "I can see now that I probably was being used toward that end, and that I was directed to do certain things which fitted into someone else's scheme, but I didn't know it at the time," was the reply.

Text of Business Men's Protest Against Passage of Gary Tax Bills

Resolution Adopted by St. Louisans Condemns Efforts Being Made in Legislature to Increase Burden on Industry and Labor.

Following is the text of the resolution, adopted by several hundred St. Louis business men at a meeting sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, in which they oppose passage of the Gary tax increase bills now before the Legislature.

Be it resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that no group of Missourians is more fully aware of the State's needs as revealed by the Survey Commission than the business interests of St. Louis.

No part of the State's population is more anxious to seek sane, remedial measures, or more willing to share, even in excess, the burden of tax that established business and the man who works for a living will be called upon to assume in this respect.

But the business man and the wage earner have not been properly consulted, nor have they been given the opportunity to accurately ascertain the load business and the employed of Missouri can assume without collapse.

The present poorly considered tax measures that are being jammed and railroaded through the House of Representatives are unjust, unreasonable and unfair.

Without reference to the merits of State needs if dealt with in moderation, the employed men and capital, who are thus about to be exorbitantly penalized, must exert every legitimate and honest means of defeating this grossly unjust, prosperity-damaging legislation. No stone must be left unturned to stop this monstrous tax grab.

We have faith in the ultimate reasoning powers of our thinking State leaders, and we are so woefully misled into hysterical class legislation that will prove a boomerang in its drastic effect on the commerce and livelihood of thousands.

Not Entering Excessive Orgies. Is Missouri impervious to the spirit of the depressed times, which is the universally one of economy? Individuals, corporations, states and nations are not entering excessive orgies of tax expenditures.

Our state of Illinois last week set an example worthy of emulation when the Governor, Attorney-General, Secretary of State and other state officials met at Springfield and agreed to pare appropriations for the next two years to the lowest possible figure.

In Wisconsin, a state so often thoughtlessly quoted in support of wild legislation, the Governor has cut this year's budget $15,000, or $144,794 less than the budget of last year—not an addition of $20,000,000 a year as proposed in Missouri. In referring to excessive demands, the Wisconsin Governor attributed it to what he characterized as the mechanical spirit—meaning thoughtless or automatic—which is wasteful, and prone to recognize the loudest voice, irrespective of its contribution to state wealth and well being of the state.

peastly registered his disapproval of the transaction, and had urged condemnation proceedings to acquire the St. Paul building. New, he said, resisted this suggestion until the grand jury investigation was under way. Then he directed Bartlett to proceed with them.

"To whom?" "To Mr. Good."

"Did he explain what it was about?" "He made no comment at all."

"It was not a customary thing for the first assistant Postmaster-General to be used as a letter carrier?" "Certainly not."

Blaine asked Bartlett if he realized that his procedure in starting condemnation proceedings at St. Paul had the effect of quieting the postoffice scandal and softening the demand for criminal prosecutions in connection with the lease. The witness pointed out that he had always favored condemnation, and therefore was taking no new stand.

"But don't you realize now," insisted Blaine, "that you were part of a scheme to chloroform the grand jury investigation and defeat the administration of justice?" "I can see now that I probably was being used toward that end, and that I was directed to do certain things which fitted into someone else's scheme, but I didn't know it at the time," was the reply.

Bartlett told of a subsequent

Isn't it possible for the Governor, the legislators and the ones elected to high office in this state to get together and review realities as well as desires, rather than to offer this crude, superficial, wasteful monstrosity of destruction under the thin guise of farm and educational relief, when, in reality, it is an excessive increasing of state department expenses which neither those supposed to be relieved or those taxed would approve?

Economy in rich Illinois and Wisconsin—wild extravagance in modestly well-off Missouri.

And yet, with every business man's protest, the grindstone of enforced economy, with more than 50,000 unemployed in St. Louis alone, with the tide of commerce at its lowest ebb in a quarter of a century, with relief the order of the day, and not only in the State but in state departments, it seems to us that Missouri officials can find much encouragement for a saner, more logical, well thought out program of state betterment, particularly for schools.

For Doubling Income Tax. This city-wide meeting would like to suggest constructively to the Legislature of the State of Missouri as the extreme burden that this city and its employed can stand without utter stagnation and increased suffering, is the doubling of the present income tax.

This, according to the Governor's measure, would supply $500,000 a year for ten years for penal institutions, $1,500,000 a year for ten years for eleemosynary institutions, $1,040,000 a year for ten years for the schools, leaving, over the ten years' period, $8,819,050 for the state university and other schools of higher learning.

Mr. Governor, Mr. Secretary of State, Mr. Legislator, Mr. Citizen Gary, is all that one class of Missourians can stand for the relief of another class. This is all the burden that can be safely borne without dire and destructive disablement of the entire economic structure of the state. This is not a threat, or warning; it is a statement of fact that demands acknowledgment if any wisdom is to temper this hell-bent-for-election tax legislation.

To impress this viewpoint and to evidence the extreme concern of this community as to its future, we propose that legislation as now proposed be enacted, to the extent here represented today votes to constitute itself a Citizens' Delegation on State Tax Legislation, not only to attend the Senate hearing on this measure, but to oppose in the Legislature and thereafter, if necessary, in every legitimate manner, the excesses of death-dealing blows to business and employment and state prosperity as constituted in the present survey bills.

A second bill doubles the corporate franchise tax and a third makes minor changes in the law as applicable to a few classes of corporations.

The Tax Commission has estimated that in 1928 the State would have produced $158,000,000 in additional State revenue, while the Chamber of Commerce of St. Louis has estimated that the revenue produced would be approximately $471,000,000.

In the Survey Commission report covering the needs of the State, $192,000,000 is fixed as the amount which will be required during the 12 years. The Chamber of Commerce in arguments before legislative committees has pointed out that, on its estimates, prepared by its taxation experts, the commission is proposing laws which would produce considerably more than twice the amount of revenue which the commission has said would be needed.

DEBATE OPENED ON SURVEY BOARD'S INCOME TAX BILLS

Representative Langdon Jones, Author of Measures Trebling Assessments, Says They Are Fair.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 10.—Representative Langdon Jones of Kennett, a member of the State Survey Commission and author of the Commission bills to treble State income taxes, today opened the debate for the bills in the House. The measures are expected to pass the House when they come to a final vote, but opposition in the Senate is expected to be strong.

The proposal in the House today was for the engrossment of the bills, a procedure which brought them up for a final vote. Jones, who introduced the bills, said they were necessary to reach their purpose and to reach their purpose and to reach their purpose.

MOTHER AT WORK ACCUSED OF LEAVING CHILDREN TIED

Pontiac (Mich.) Authorities Take Charge of Girl, 4, and Boy, 5, Bound to Bedpost.

By the Associated Press. PONTIAC, Mich., Feb. 10.—The case of a woman accused of tying her two little children to a bedpost while she went to work was referred to the Oakland County Probate Court today.

After a preliminary investigation, juvenile officers decided to ask the court to decide whether the woman, Mrs. Consuelo E. Marie, 29 years old, should be allowed to keep the children, Phyllis, 4, and Robert, 5.

Police of Royal Oak, suburban community between Detroit and Pontiac, removed the children from the home there last night to the detention home here. Patrolman Frank Wiley and Irving Ball reported that the children were tied with only two feet of slack in the cords and that the house was not heated.

Persons living in the same house said that Mrs. Marie tied the children when she went to work and said another woman to watch the house.

Mrs. Marie, police were told, has been divorced. She has been working at the Shrine of the Little Flower as secretary for the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, whose radio broadcasts bring numerous letters which require a force of 54 secretaries to answer.

MAYOR WARNS AGAINST PASSING GARY TAX BILLS

principal Gary bill, which would increase the State income tax on individuals and corporations on a sliding scale, actually would produce nearly three times the revenue which the State Survey Commission had estimated. That is, this amount would be produced if industries were not driven from the State, as he feared they would be.

Heavy Tax Increase Proposed. One of the Gary bills would double the State corporation franchise tax, making it one-tenth of 1 per cent on net value of outstanding capital stock and surplus, instead of one-twentieth of 1 per cent, the rate now in effect.

The Gary bills were prepared and submitted to the Legislature by Theodore Gary of Macon and Kansas City who was chairman of the State Survey Commission created by the Legislature two years ago.

The Survey Commission recommended a program of improvement of State institutions and educational facilities which it estimated would require additional revenues of about $158,000,000 in 10 years. The commission did not draft proposed legislation to make its recommendations effective, but after expiration of its legal existence, Gary had the bills drawn up.

Weisenburger said the proposed bills would actually increase the revenue a total of $390,000,000 in 12 years—an amount far beyond the needs set forth in the Survey Commission's report.

Scullin Talks of Moving. The danger that industries would leave the State if the tax bills are enacted should not be regarded lightly, Weisenburger said. He referred to the fact that Harry Scullin, president of the Scullin Steel Co., had said his concern would consider moving if the taxes were increased as proposed.

R. E. Lutz, general counsel of the International Shoe Co., said his company had showed a preference for Missouri locations, having 30 plants in this State against 11 in Illinois, but added:

"If the State slaps us in the face with these outrageous tax increases, our board of directors, in fairness to the stockholders, will be forced to consider transferring our activities more and more to other states."

He said these tax increases would have to be figured in the needs of the manufacturers who would have to ask for their products, which would place Missouri industries in a bad position.

SURVEY COMMISSIONER FILES DISSENTING TAX BILL REPORT

Senator Manvel H. Davis Says Only Part of Gary's Recommendations Was Read Before State Board.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 10.—State Senator Manvel H. Davis of Kansas City, who was a member of the former State Survey Commission, announced today in the Senate that he would file a dissenting report on recommendations of the majority of the survey commission on taxation and revenue measures. These measures are the basis of the commission majority's proposed $192,000,000 spending program in 10 years.

Davis obtained leave from the Senate to print his dissenting report for distribution to the legislators tomorrow.

He said he had not filed a full dissenting report previously because the work of some of the experts employed by the Survey Commission was not completed until after the commission's official life expired on Nov. 30, 1929, and that the information had not been available to him until long after the majority report of the commission had been submitted to the Governor.

Davis declared the reading of the majority report to the commission members, after it had been prepared, never was completed by the Survey Commission, which he said Gary started to read the report to the other six members about 45 minutes before expiration of the official life of the commission. He said reading of the recommendations of Gov. Caulfield for a program about one-fifth as large as the Gary-Becker plan.

JEWELER REPORTS $20,000 DIAMOND HOLDUP BY PAIR

Edward J. Gallant, 925
Franklin Av., Tells of Being Forced Into Basement by Man and Woman

$175 ROBBERY AT DOWNTOWN CHILDS'

Gast Dry Goods Co., 2501
North Grand Boulevard Robbed for Fourth Time in Three Years.

Edward J. Gallant, jeweler at 925 Franklin avenue, reported that a pair of men and a woman entered his store at 10 o'clock today and forced him into the basement with a warning to make no outcry for an hour. He said he thought his loss was fully covered by insurance.

Gallant was found in the basement after Gilbert Lowenstein, a Chicago diamond salesman, found the front door locked and called police. The jeweler said the robbers had occurred a half-hour before but explained that he was afraid to leave the basement.

The pair, Gallant said, consisted of between 200 and 300 loose stones and between 20 and 25 rings. He related that the pair had entered the store and had expressed dissatisfaction with his stock and to see the unset stones which he kept in his safe. As soon as he had opened the compartment, Gallant said, the man threatened him with a pistol and put him in the basement.

No one in the neighborhood reported seeing the pair leave the store. The man, according to the jeweler, wore a black overcoat and a black beaver hat. The woman was dressed in a brown fur coat. She appeared to be about 35 years old.

Childs' Restaurant Robbed. A Childs' restaurant at 214 North Seventh street was held up at 10 o'clock this morning and robbed of $175 by a young man who threatened the cashier with a revolver while several customers sat nearby unaware of what was happening.

After surrendering the money, the cashier, Mrs. Bertha McCrea, 215 North Seventh street, St. Louis, cried for help and the robber ran out the door, pursued by the customers who followed him to Chestnut street, and, after being joined by a traffic policeman, lost sight of the fugitive in the traffic.

The Gast Dry Goods Co., 2501 North Grand boulevard, was held up last night for the fourth time in less than three years, three armed men taking $750 from cash registers and $17 from three employees. Several customers were in the store but none was molested.

Isadore Gascovitz, proprietor, after he and four employees had been marched to a wash room in the rear of the store, saved a diamond ring by explaining to the robbers that it had been a gift from his wife. Allowing him to keep it, one of them said, "That's a better deal than you would give us."

Lake Fishermen, Marooned on Ice, Signaling to Plane

AIRPLANE view of the 20 fishermen who were carried out into Lake Erie on a huge block of ice. When the plane flew over the fishermen spelled out the word "HELP" with pikepoles, as shown in the photograph. The pilot dropped a big can of hot coffee by parachute, then directed coast guards to the scene. All the fishermen were rescued yesterday, including one 8-year-old boy.

WAS HELD UP FOR $25. The robber also took Steffen's hat.

A White Castle Restaurant at 300 North Broadway was robbed of $11 by an armed robber.

Three purses were reported stolen from the locker room of the University Club while the owners were playing squash. Those who reported the thefts were: Robert Mudd, 4601 McPherson avenue, $25; William Adams, 6063 Westminster place, $25; Oscar Rexford, 4757 Westminster place, $10.

TWO WOMEN SLAIN IN SALOON, BROTHER OF GANGSTER SHOT

domen, and Goebel twice in the head and once in the right hand. The women were dead when they reached the City Hospital.

Questioned in the ambulance, Goebel said, "I was drinking with the ladies when they came in and began shooting; I never saw them before."

Goebel, 27 years old, is a chauffeur and former saloonkeeper, living with his brother, Harry, and their parents at 4644 Cottage avenue. His saloon formerly was near the Taylor-Easton corner where in 1928 he shot and killed Joseph Shetterly, with whom he had had trouble, but he was freed on evidence that he fired resisting a hold-up. He had been arrested more than 75 times for investigation and in 1928 was tried and acquitted in connection with a holdup of the State Bank of Wellston.

Mrs. Lynam Often Held. Mrs. Lynam, 30, was the widow of John Lynam, arrested many times for questioning before his death from natural causes a year ago. She had a record of many arrests on shoplifting charges and once was sentenced to 60 days in the workhouse for that offense. She lived at 4416 Laclede avenue in a four-family apartment building she owned. Neighbors said she lived quietly with some relatives and seemed to be well-to-do.

Mrs. Evans, 36, a divorcee and unemployed beauty shop operator, lived at 7364 Melrose avenue, University City, with a married sister, Mrs. Michael Walsh, who said she left alone last night to visit a motion picture theater. In 1922 Mrs. Evans shot and killed "Polander Mike" Marchlewski, with whom she lived, and was freed at the inquest on a self-defense plea. In 1921 she was sentenced to a year in the workhouse for shoplifting.

Harry Goebel, Saloonkeeper Futrelle and the two customers were placed under arrest for appearance as witnesses at the inquest. Several other men, found in the neighborhood of the saloon when police arrived, were taken to Deer Street Police Station but were released when they convinced detectives they had seen nothing. A small quantity of beer and whisky was confiscated in the saloon.

Dewey Goebel Murder Theory. The murder of Dewey Goebel and his associate, Lester Barth, by gunmen who crowded their automobile to a curb was viewed by police as part of a feud which began in October with an attack on a Cuckoo gang still near Valley, Ill., where two men were killed and two wounded. Since then several other murders and attempted murders have been looked upon as retaliatory methods by men involved in the feud.

EYE OF ROBERT S. BROOKINGS SAVED AFTER 3 OPERATIONS

Philanthropist and Educator Recovering; Lost Sight of One Organ Five Years Ago.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Robert S. Brookings, St. Louis and Washington philanthropist and educator, is making a remarkable recovery from the effects of three operations on his left eye during the last three months of last year. He is 81 years old.

Glaucoma destroyed the sight in his right eye five years ago. When the left eye began to fail, blindness seemed imminent. At his home here today, Brookings said the operations to save this eye, performed by the noted specialist, Dr. William H. Wilmer, at Wilmer Institute in Baltimore, had been successful. The operations, which involved the removal of a cataract, were of extraordinary delicacy.

Brookings is under the care of nurses at his home, but is able to get out occasionally and take part in the direction of the Brookings Institution for Research, of which he is the founder and chairman of the board.

"I expect," he said, "that my left eye will be as good as ever."

THREE BELLEVILLE FIREMEN INJURED IN TRUCK COLLISION

Thrown to Pavement in Answering Alarm in Emergency Vehicle; Two in Hospital.

Three Belleville firemen were injured shortly before noon today when a small truck, in which they were answering an alarm, collided with another truck at Thirty-sixth and West Main streets, throwing them to the pavement.

John Finklein, brother of Fire Chief Walter Finklein, was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital suffering concussion of the brain and injury to the back. Edward Falcetti was treated for a fractured right arm and lacerations, and John Wade, after bruises and cuts from flying glass were treated, was sent home.

Emil Quicker and William Schmelzel, both of New Athens, who were riding in the other truck, were not hurt. They said they did not know the firemen's truck was an emergency vehicle since it had no siren or identifying mark.

DEPORTED BRITON WRITES OF 'GANG ADVENTURES' HERE

G. W. Fellowes, Under Prison Sentence, Publishes First-Person Thrillers in London.

George W. Fellowes, who ran an unlicensed radio broadcasting station in St. Louis before he was deported to England last May, and who found diversion in amateur radio law, is writing first-person thrillers for London Sunday papers, describing his purported adventures in St. Louis.

"The Man Who Will Die If He Goes Back to U. S.," is the three-column headline over his article in a recent issue of the London Sunday Express. It is a fact that Fellowes, if he returned, would have to serve a term of a year and a day in Leavenworth Penitentiary for his violation of the Federal radio law. He accepted deportation as an alternative to imprisonment. This is not mentioned in his story, which lays his trouble entirely to his supposed anti-gang activities.

Fellowes relates, in the Express article, that he solved the mysterious murder of Clifford Hicks, St. Louis lawyer, in 1925, but that the evidence was placed in the hands of "Mr. Andrew Maroney, the District Attorney," and vanished after Maroney died suddenly. Fellowes said he had other evidence, which he placed in the hands of State Senator Joseph Mogler, after which Mogler was murdered. The St. Louis police are familiar with Fellowes' theories on the Hicks murder, which were not taken seriously by the official investigators.

Alabama Senator Applauds Their Decision to Wear Only Cotton.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Women students of the University of Missouri were commended in the Senate yesterday by Senator Heflin for proposing to wear only cotton hosiery and lingerie in order to aid the cotton farmers.

The Alabama Democrat urged similar action by all Americans, particularly those in the South.

Withdraws Dynamiting Reward.

The International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers has withdrawn its offer of $1000 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the dynamiting of the highway bridge at Garland City, Ark., last Sept. 3.

2 HELD AS KIDNAPERS ON EX-POLICEMAN'S TIP

Ray Wagner, St. Louis Gangster, One of Pair Seized in Los Angeles Plot.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 10.—Two men trapped by a former Chicago policeman are held today as participants in the recent kidnaping of E. L. (Zeke) Carass, wealthy sportsman, and his wife.

District Attorney Buron Fitts said the men were Louis Franks, 45 years old, alleged liquor runner, and Ray Wagner, 33, alias Jackson, St. Louis gangster. The two were arrested late Saturday night in a Phoenix, Ariz., cottage on a tip from Ed Fox, Chicago ex-policeman, now in Phoenix for his health.

Wagner, said to have been shot by Long Beach, Cal., officers in a fight while he and others were on their way to a gambling barge to cash Carass' check for $50,000, is reported to be dying in an outlying hospital. Both he and Franks refused to talk.

Fitts said Franks and the wounded Wagner had been living in Phoenix the last 10 days in a house owned by Henry "Dutch" Reiss, formerly of St. Louis, at which Fox was a frequent visitor.

Last Thursday night, Fitts reported, Reiss, Franks and Wagner were drinking and Franks began talking about the Carass case. Fox, who attended the party, notified Sheriff J. D. McFadden of Phoenix. The raid followed, and the men were put in an automobile and brought to California.

SCHOOL PATRONS' MEETING

Clarence L. Miller Installed As President of Alliance.

Clarence L. Miller, newly elected president of the Public School Patrons' Alliance, and other officers were installed at a meeting of the alliance at the Board of Education Building last night.

Myrt A. Rollins, vice president of the Board of Education and a former head of the alliance, presented a scroll to Joseph C. Schroeder, retiring president, in appreciation of Schroeder's three years' service in that office and five years as treasurer.

Girl Freed in Man's Death.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 10.—Margaret Peterson, 21 years old, was released last night by police who questioned her in connection with the death in a downtown hotel Sunday of H. H. Guber, Ottawa, Kan., jeweler. She told police she was in Guber's room from 1 a. m. until noon Sunday. D. H. Thurman, Chief of Detectives, said he thought Guber suffered fatal injuries in a fall.

MOTHER OF 6 CHILDREN GETS WEEK IN JAIL FOR CONTEMPT

New Baden (Ill.) Woman Violates Court Order in Taking Estranged Husband's Furniture.

Mrs. Kate Model, New Baden, Ill., mother of six small children, was sentenced to a week in jail and fined $5 by Circuit Judge Miller at Belleville today for contempt of court in removing furniture and household goods from the home of her estranged husband, William Model, a farmer living near Mascoutah, Ill. The judge also ordered that the father should have custody of the children until the parents' divorce suit can be decided.

Mrs. Model separated from her husband last December, moving to New Baden with the children. Last month she filed divorce proceedings and the husband filed a cross bill. Yesterday she told Judge Miller she needed two beds and some bedding, so the judge gave her permission to take the articles from her husband's home.

The husband told Judge Miller today that she had taken "just about everything" from his house. Brought into court under an attachment, Mrs. Model explained that she had not understood that the judge had limited her to specific articles.

Meanwhile, Model had sworn out warrants against his wife's father and brother and three associates, charging they assaulted him when he returned home yesterday.

WIFE OF EDWARD A. LANGAN GETS DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

Also Receives Custody of Child; Testified He Abused Her, Drank Heavily.

Mrs. Louise A. Langan, 7552 Stanford avenue, obtained a divorce at Clayton yesterday from Edward A. Langan, president of the Langan Furniture Co. She received custody of their 4-year-old son, Edward Langan Jr., $150 a month alimony and $55 a month for the support of the child.

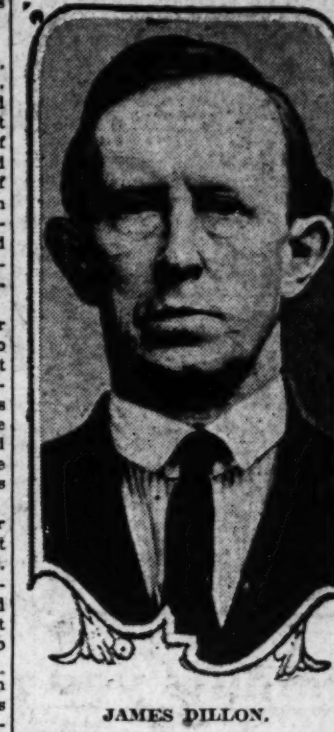

Mrs. Langan charged general indignities. She testified that her husband drank to excess, became intoxicated on their wedding trip and was indifferent. Since the separation he has given her but $45, she said.

Under an agreement, Mrs. Schroeder is to receive $75 a month and the following additional allowance annually: 30 per cent of all salary and commissions earned by Schroeder in excess of $6000; 20 per cent if his earnings are in excess of $6000 annually, and 15 per cent of any amount greater than $10,000.

Would Legalize Arrow in Hunting.

By the Associated Press. CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 10.—Legalization of the use of bow and arrow for the killing of wild animals has been asked of the Legislature. A measure seeking amendment of the game laws has been introduced by Representative Dugois of Concord, who told a Legislative committee that he wished to stimulate interest in archery. The bill would add the words "or with a long bow" to the present definition of how game may be legally taken.

DIVORCES LYRA SCHROEDER FOR GENERAL INDIGNITIES

Wife of Investment Broker Obtains Decree at Clayton; Financial Settlement Made.

A divorce was granted at Clayton today to Mrs. Lyra Schroeder, 219 Swon avenue, Webster Groves, from Lyra Schroeder, an investment broker, living at the Coronado Hotel.

Mrs. Schroeder, who charged general indignities, said they were married Sept. 12, 1929, and separated several months later. She testified that her husband drank to excess, became intoxicated on their wedding trip and was indifferent. Since the separation he has given her but $45, she said.

Under an agreement, Mrs. Schroeder is to receive $75 a month and the following additional allowance annually: 30 per cent of all salary and commissions earned by Schroeder in excess of $6000; 20 per cent if his earnings are in excess of $6000 annually, and 15 per cent of any amount greater than $10,000.

Trimbles (Mo.) Bank Closes.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 10.—The Trimbles State Bank at Trimbles, in Clinton County, failed to open today, the State Finance Department was notified by the board of directors. No reason for the closing was given. According to its last statement the bank had $42,084 in deposits.

Gold Rush in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10.—The recent earthquakes and torrential rains caused a gold rush at 21 Tambor, near San Ignacio, in the State of Sinaloa, according to news which reached here today. Reports said that a landslide uncovered a rich stretch of gold and that more than 100 people rushed to the vicinity and began placer mining. Nuggets of considerable value were found in the ground laid open by the slide.

HELPLESS FROM SHOCK 6 MONTHS, RECOVERS

Miss Dorothy H. Sawyer, Teacher, Had Been Unable to Speak or Move.

After almost six months of being unable to speak or move, Miss Dorothy Helen Sawyer, 24-year-old school teacher of 440 West Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves, has recovered and except for physical weakness, is as well as ever, her parents believe.

Miss Sawyer, who, physicians think, acquired a mysterious malady when she slipped and was partially strangled while wading in the Meramec River at Fenton last August, is able to remember much of what was said and what happened to her in the six months that have elapsed since then, although she was unable to move or speak and attendants were not certain whether she could understand them.

"I talked to one of our doctors last night," her father, F. E. Sawyer, auditor of freight accounts for the Terminal Railroad Association, told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "He told me that since she has recovered we probably will never know whether she was suffering from shock or had contracted an infectious disease."

"She suffered severe pains in the head shortly after her experience at the river, and this led the doctors to believe in the infectious disease theory. She talks and acts perfectly normally now, save that she is weak and nervous and occasionally her tongue, from lack of use apparently, is a little thick."

Mrs. Sawyer related that she was sitting by her daughter's bedside Saturday night when the young woman opened her eyes and said, "Mother." "Then she asked for her father," Mrs. Sawyer continued. "Since then she has been perfectly normal. The accident at the Meramec happened just six months ago today."

Since she was graduated from Washington University four years ago, Miss Sawyer has been a teacher in the Staunton (Ill.) High School.

$25,000 ALIENATION SUIT AGAINST STATE LEGISLATOR

Representative William P. Elmer, Dent County Republican, Charges Spite.

SALEM, Mo., Feb. 10.—A suit charging alienation of affections and asking for damages of $25,000 has been filed in Circuit Court here by J. H. Weller of Licking, County Representative in the State Legislature.

Mrs. Weller came to Salem in June, 1930, and employed Elmer to represent her in divorce proceedings. It is understood that certain unfavorable comments by Weller at the time caused Elmer to return his retainer fee to Mrs. Weller, with the advice that she employ an attorney at Houston.

She obtained a divorce during the June term of the 1930 Texas County Circuit Court. The petition filed here does not make any specific charge against the Representative other than alleging alienation by inducing Mrs. Weller to obtain a divorce. Mrs. Weller at one time was a proofreader for the Revision Commission at Jefferson City. Weller was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative from Texas County in the 1930 primary but received only 65 votes. Elmer, a Republican, charged Weller with the alienation of affections.

KILLED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION OF AUTOS

Duncan Donaldson, Ferguson, Loses Life — His Wife and Baby Hurt.

Duncan Donaldson, 118 South Clark avenue, Ferguson, was killed outright and his wife and son were injured early today when his automobile, northbound on Florissant road, collided head on with another at a bridge about a mile south of Ferguson.

Donaldson's skull was fractured and his neck broken. His wife was cut and bruised and their 8-month-old son Edward suffered lacerations of the scalp. They were treated by a physician and taken home. Another son, William, 2 years old, escaped injury.

Donaldson, a molder, 33 years old, was returning home with his family after visiting friends in St. Louis.

Herbert Vamier, a mechanic, 2118 Harry's Lane, Carnoustie, was held for the Coroner as the driver of the other automobile. He was not injured. The inquest will be held at Overland tomorrow morning.

JEFFERSON LIVINGSTON DIES; MADE MILLIONS IN CATSUP

Widely Known Sportsman Succumbs to Heart Attack; Spent Fortune on Horses.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Jefferson Livingston, millionaire turfman and catsup manufacturer, died of a heart attack yesterday at his home in Hotel Plaza. He was 68 years old and was born in Lisbon, O. At his bedside were two sisters, Mrs. Charles Street and Miss Minnie Livingston, both of Washington, and a nephew, Wade L. Street, who lives in Florida. Two other sisters and a brother also survive.

Livingston is credited with having discovered the commercial possibilities of catsup and for many years was head of the Dole-Snyder Preserve Co. He made a fortune of several million dollars before he retired to devote his time to racing.

Of recent years he had made his headquarters in New York, although his home was in Cincinnati. He was devoted to racing, but his life ambition to win the Kentucky Derby was never realized. He came close in 1925, when Son of John carried his colors to third place behind Flying Ebony and the ill-fated Cap. Hal. Price rarely stood in the way. More than once he gambled high to get a classic winner, and once paid $40,000 for Firebrand, which disappointed him.

Among horses of prominence which he owned in recent years were Recreation and De Bay. The latter had developed into a good jumper.

SHORTAGE IN RAINFALL IN TENS PER ACRE IS SHOWN

Arkansas 29th of Drouth States List But Moisture Came When It Could Do Little Good.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The extent of drouth conditions does not necessarily depend upon the amount of rain, according to J. B. Kincer, agricultural meteorologist, who says some of the states hardest hit by the drouth received more rainfall per acre last year than some which suffered less. The difference is that the principal rainfall of the former states came at a time when it did little good. Arkansas, for example, is considered the hardest hit drouth state, yet it ranked twenty-ninth in shortage of rain.

Kincer says the shortage of rainfall in tons per acre for 1930 in the drouth states was: Virginia, 2034; Kentucky, 2023; Maryland, 2000; Virginia, 1921; Pennsylvania, 1526; North Carolina, 1377; Tennessee and Ohio, 1243 each; Indiana, 1855; Washington, 1051; Oregon, 1046; Illinois, 949; Missouri, 938; Michigan, 815; South Carolina, 893; California, 802; New York, 780; Alabama, 723; Mississippi, 701; Iowa, 639; Wisconsin, 621; Georgia, 594; North Dakota, 539; South Dakota and Oklahoma, 294 each; Minnesota and Louisiana, 271 each; Texas, 170; Arkansas, 124.

MEETING TO SPEED LINDELL WIDENING WILL BE HELD

Group Calls a Public Gathering for Tomorrow Night to Discuss Bottleneck.

An organization of property owners interested in hastening the widening of Lindell boulevard between Channing avenue and Grand boulevard, which was formed recently, will hold a public meeting at 8 p. m. tomorrow at the Frigidaire Building, 2414 Lindell.

In an announcement, leaders of the movement said this widening to remove a traffic bottleneck was not merely a neighborhood project but on that should enlist the interest of all progressive citizens.

The plan for the widening has been delayed by litigation in a series of condemnation proceedings. A. A. Guenther is temporarily president of the unnamed organization and J. R. Hoolan temporary secretary.

Alderman Brinkman Files. Alderman August M. Brinkman of the Fourteenth Ward filed notice of his candidacy for the Republican nomination to succeed himself with the Election Board yesterday. He is a lawyer and resides at 2110 South Grand boulevard.

MAXEY BALLOT BILL ENGROSSED BY HOUSE

Measure for Separate Ticket for Presidential Electors on Calendar for Passage.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 10.—The Maxey bill to amend the blanket ballot law to require the names of candidates for presidential electors to be placed on a ballot separate from that bearing the names of candidates for State and local offices, in presidential elections in Missouri, was engrossed in the House late yesterday. The bill had been made a caucus measure by the Democratic majority, but was engrossed without a record vote. It now goes to the House calendar for passage.

Democratic leaders desire separation of the presidential elector candidates from other candidates, believing this arrangement might save some of the Democratic State candidates in the event of re-election of landholders for Republican presidential candidates in the last three presidential elections. A test case was instituted in the Missouri Supreme Court last year to obtain a ruling on a contention that separate presidential elector ballots were authorized under existing election laws. The court unanimously ruled the section of law relied on by the Democrats,

WASHINGTON U. DEANS ADDRESS U. S. RETAILERS

Prof. Stephens Discusses Machine Age, Prof. Loeb the Relations of Government and Business.

After considering the influence of the machine age on business and the changing relationships of government and business, the American Retailers' Association, which is holding its fifteenth semi-annual convention at Hotel Statler, will turn tonight to a discussion of the future of the retailer in 1931 and the importance of careful stock inventories.

About 600 members, representing merchants and buyers from all over the country, in St. Louis primarily to order their spring stocks, registered at the opening of the convention yesterday and additional registrations were received today. The sessions, all of which are held at night, will close tomorrow night and the convention will adjourn Thursday night after its semi-annual banquet. Directors will meet Friday.

A spring style pageant, sponsored by the Associated Garment Industries and the Associated Millinery Industries of St. Louis, was presented last night and will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

St. Louis Professors Speak. Models displayed the latest modes in sport and street dresses, afternoon dresses, sport and street coats, and millinery and footwear.

Speakers at the sessions include six professors from Washington and St. Louis universities who deal with practical topics pertinent to the merchandising business.

Dean George W. Stephens, professor of economics, and Prof. Isador Loeb, dean of the school of business and public administration, Washington University, spoke last night. Prof. J. M. Klamon, associate professor of commerce at Washington, and Prof. Isaac M. Lippincott, professor of economic resources, will speak tonight.

Dean Stephens pointed out the advent of the machine age has stimulated mass production and increased competition in every line of business, representing a basic change of more fundamental effect than temporary political or economic disturbances.

For Statistical Information. Overproduction should be discouraged, he said, while fair competition should be encouraged. Development of statistical information covering production and potential markets, a banking and credit policy to permit purchasing power to increase in proportion to production, and a stabilized financial policy, preventing wide changes in price levels, are necessary to meet present conditions, Dean Stephens said.

Discussing changing relationships in government and business, Dean Loeb traced the trend of national regulation and stated that such regulation has developed since the growth of great corporations.

Costs of government may be reduced by "intelligent organization," Dean Loeb said, "just as scientific research has lessened the cost of business. He urged also the adoption of the short ballot.

6000 APPLICATIONS FOR SEED LOANS AT ST. LOUIS OFFICE

408 Counties Eligible for Aid in This District, 81 in Missouri, 41 in Illinois.

The Federal Farmers' Seed Loan Office at 215 North Tenth street has received about 6000 applications for loans from farmers in the drought areas of the seven states in this district and has disbursed about $15,000. The applications, forwarded to St. Louis by the various County Seed Loan Advisory Committees and County Agents, are coming in at the rate of more than 1000 a day.

It was announced today that there are 408 counties eligible for loans in this district, as follows: Missouri, 81; Illinois, 41; Indiana, 41; Kansas, 26; Kentucky, 126; Oklahoma, 49; Texas, 39.

T. Wood Harvey, in charge of the local office, is in Mount Vernon, Ill., today to address county agents. Tomorrow he will talk to agents of Southwestern Indiana at Washington and Thursday he will address Southeastern Indiana agents at Seymour.

H. F. Link and A. F. Houston, district agricultural agents, respectively, of the University of Kentucky and Oklahoma A. and M. College, have been added to the application examination board of the local office.

ZOO OBTAINS MOUNTAIN GOAT

New Wolverine From Alaska Game Commission Also Received.

A young Rocky Mountain goat, captured in Alaska for the St. Louis Zoological Garden, was delivered at the zoo yesterday, in company with a wolverine also captured by members of the Alaska Game Commission.

The goat which Zoo Director Verhelst described as "a fine young animal," is the first of several he hopes to obtain to replace the aging pair of goats given to the zoo six years ago by the Canadian Government. The wolverine will be placed on display with the nine other members of its species now at the zoo.

For Wood Alcohol Investigation.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—A resolution calling on the Secretary of Commerce to say whether the Bureau of Mines has accepted money from wood alcohol manufacturers was introduced yesterday.

by Senator Brunsard (Dem.), Louisiana. The action followed complaint that a bureau circular alleged to "give wood alcohol a clean bill of health for anti-freeze use" was seriously threatening the alcohol industry of his State.

Truck Concern Charges False Publication to Injure Credit.
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Alleging publication of false reports to injure its credit and reputation, the Brockman Motor Truck Corporation of Cortland, N. Y., filed a $500,000 libel suit in Supreme Court today.

Defendants named were the "Clerk Publishing Co., Inc., C. G. Wyckoff, E. Kenneth Burger, W. Sheridan Kane, and Richard Banbury, described as operators of the magazine of Wall Street.

STATE POSTPONES CHOOSING ROUTE OF SUPERHIGHWAY

Chairman Absent at Board Meeting So Action Is Deferred at Jesse McDonald's Suggestion.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 10.—Final designation of the route for the proposed superhighway through St. Louis County, which has been in controversy for more than two years, was deferred today by the State Highway Commission because Chairman C. D. Matthews of St. Louis was absent and other members of the commission were not ready to make a decision.

R. S. Brownlee of Brookfield, vice chairman, laid the matter over at the suggestion of Commissioner Jesse McDonald of St. Louis, who said he was not ready to pass upon the matter.

"This is a matter of considerable importance and many people are interested," Brownlee said. "I don't think we should pass upon it without the full commission being present." He said the designation of the route probably would be taken up at the next monthly meeting on March 10 unless a special meeting was called in the interim. He said he knew of no reason for a special session.

It was learned that members of the commission believed they should give further consideration to the route, because of the importance of the project and the strong opposition that has developed against the so-called Clayton-Conway road route which is favored by Chief Highway Engineer T. H. Cutler and has been recommended by engineers of the Highway Department.

Wanted Action This Meeting.
Cutler had requested the Commission to make a decision on the route at this meeting, explaining the matter had been under discussion for a long time and many persons had been holding up building projects pending a decision on the road location.

Cutler has favored the Clayton-Conway route, stating it would be the most direct route, would cost less than proposed alternative routes, and would involve less damage to property in obtaining right-of-way for the road.

While Cutler had suggested an immediate decision, he has stated actual construction of the superhighway could be started until 1932. No funds were allotted to the project in the 1931 construction program of the commission because the question of location had not been determined.

The Clayton-Conway route is opposed by the St. Louis County Court, numerous property owners who would be adversely affected by routing the highway through or near their property, the St. Louis County Plan Association and the St. Louis City Plan Commission. The latter body recommended an alternative route with Page avenue as the means of entry into St. Louis.

The Clayton-Conway Route.
The Clayton-Conway route would extend from the St. Louis city limits along Clayton road to North and South road, then follow a new location south of the Log Cabin Club and extending westward about midway between the Conway and Clayton roads, to a junction with the Olive Street road at Bellefontaine. It would continue from Bellefontaine across the Missouri River on a bridge to be built near Chesterfield, and would connect with United States Highway No. 40 at Wentzville.

The State Highway Commission has extensive power in the designation of routes for State highways, limited only by certain route designations by the Legislature in the centennial road law, which provided for the original 7640-mile State highway system, and by court review.

Its powers are derived from the highway law and the constitutional amendment adopted in 1928, authorizing an additional road bond issue of $75,000,000.

The Missouri Supreme Court has upheld the power of the commission to vary from route designations made by the Legislature for the primary or high type highways, if the location is altered in the interest of economy and directness of route.

URGES PAGE AS TEMPORARY ROUTE FOR HIGHWAY 40

County League Urges This Pending Decision on Entry of Permanent Super Road Into City.

The St. Louis County Highway League, which was formed to advocate use of the Page avenue route for the new super highway across the county for United States Highway No. 40, adopted a resolution last night urging the State Highway Commission to make Page the temporary routing for No. 40 until a permanent route is established.

Disapproval of the route proposed by State engineers, which would enter the city over Clayton road, was voiced by the resolution, which declared this routing would reduce value of residential property traversed. The resolution argued that the Page route was comparatively level and ran through undeveloped country principally, making it cheaper to build than other routes.

Reference was made to the decision of the City Plan Commission that Page avenue was the best point of entry for the super highway from the standpoint of city traffic handling, and to the fact that the County Court and County

Plan Association recently had approved the State's route. The County Court suggested use of Page, Olive Street road, or an extension of Delmar boulevard.

SEEKING CONTINUOUS EMPLOYMENT PLAN

U. S. Chamber of Commerce to Name Group to Formulate Program to Avoid Depressions.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building, WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States plans soon to name a committee from the key industries of its membership to formulate a program to give workers continuous employment and to act as a preventive of major industrial depression.

Announcement of the plan has been made by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the organization. Personnel of the committee will be made public later.

Barnes, in urging this action by business itself, expresses the view that, if it is not taken promptly, the Government may undertake some move of the kind with remedial results leading to "greater ills than those they are intended to cure."

He points out that there must be co-operation between interdependent industries.

"If a certain number of key industries could give their workers the assurance of uninterrupted employment and sustained earning capacity, they would set up against the recurrent waves of apprehension and distress that characterize every business depression a formidable barrier and buttress the general sense of security which is so important a factor in the maintenance of business activity," Barnes declares.

"Here, at least, is a starting point. In the belief that something can be accomplished in this direction, the national chamber is asking the service of men of proven leadership in various lines of industry to consider the practicability of steps by which workers in certain key industries may be given assurance of some degree of continuity of employment."

"Different industries, it is true, face different conditions, just as each individual manufacturer faces a peculiar set of circumstances. But there is certainly a sufficient community of interest, a mutuality of advantage and similarity of method in all industries which are inextricably tied together in the same general enterprise, to serve as a basis for a greater degree of co-operation among them in the attempt to devise practical methods of meeting this great problem."

CARL SHELTON ASKED ABOUT THREE KILLINGS

Gang Leader Questioned Concerning Murders in East St. Louis Flat.

Carl Shelton, leader of the Shelton gang and former Southern Illinois gunman, was arrested in East St. Louis today for questioning concerning three slayings at the flat of Ralph (Wide-Open) Smith in East St. Louis a week ago Sunday.

Chief of Police James Leahy, who took Shelton to headquarters this morning, reported he found the gangster loitering at Tenth street and Illinois avenue. Shelton, who described himself as 38 years old, a miner of Herrin, Ill., denied knowledge of the killing of David Hoffmann, East Side merchant, and Joseph P. Carroll and Theodore Kaminski, St. Louis, at Smith's flat, 238A East Broadway, according to Chief Leahy. The gang leader probably will be questioned by State's Attorney Lindauer.

Bernie Shelton, brother of Carl, and "Wide-Open" Smith also are being sought. Carroll, a former St. Louis policeman, was formerly in the taxi business with Bernie Shelton.

Alice Landrum, questioned in connection with the killing of three men Feb. 1 in "Wide-Open" Smith's East St. Louis gambling flat, pleaded guilty of vagrancy today at Belleville and was sentenced to six months in jail.

The woman, said to have lived at the flat prior to last month, changed her plea from not guilty, entered last Friday. Eugene Morrow, arrested with her, also pleaded not guilty and is to be arraigned before Justice Wangelin next Monday.

James Randolph, a Negro, held in jail since police found him and Oliver Nicholas cleaning up the bullet-marked flat, was released today on habeas corpus proceedings. Niehaus is held under a warrant charging murder of David Hoffmann, one of the three men whose brush-covered bodies were found in a ditch on a lonely road east of Granite City.

WILLIE DUNN, TUTOR IN GOLF,
HELD ON HOTEL'S COMPLAINT

Professional Said to Have Left the Lindell-Plaza Hotel Owing a Bill For $118.

Willie Dunn, golf professional, who says he has tutored Rockefeller, Roosevelt, Lord Balfour, and some of the crowned heads of Europe and goldmines, is held at the Newstead District police station for alleged failure to pay a hotel bill.

Dunn, who is 67 years old, was arrested last night at the New Plaza Hotel, on complaint of Mrs. Serana Alexander, manager of the Lindell Plaza Hotel, 4500 Lindell boulevard. Mrs. Alexander told police that a week ago she discovered that Dunn had moved his famous "whistling" driver and other personal effects from the hotel, although owing a bill of $118. She had been searching for the golfer all week and located him last night.

Dunn had nothing to say, according to officers. In an interview published in a local newspaper last summer, Dunn related that he was brought to the United States from Scotland by W. K. Vanderbilt. He said he was the Willie Dunn who won the first open golf championship of the United States in 1894. In recent years Dunn has advocated a radical change in driving a golf ball, practicing what he terms the "baseball swing." He is also the inventor of a whistling club, which whistles when the ball is struck correctly.

MOTION PICTURE SUBSIDIES
PROVIDED IN ITALIAN DECREE

By the Associated Press. ROME, Feb. 10.—Government subsidies for Italian moving pictures are provided by the terms of a decree made public today, which Parliament will be asked to approve.

The subsidies, intended to strengthen Italian producers in their fight against foreign pictures, especially those from America, will date from Jan. 1, 1931, and will vary according to the success of the pictures as testified by the attendance.

25 PROPERTY OWNERS WANT TO BE ANNEXED BY LADUE

Twenty-five resident property owners of the area bounded by Warson, Denny, Ladue and Conway roads have petitioned the Board of Trustees of Ladue Village to annex the territory. S. Cupples Scudder, one of the petitioners, said the request was made by virtually every resident of the district.

The petition will be considered at the next meeting of the Board of Trustees, according to Walter R. Mayne, a Trustee and attorney for Ladue Village.

RECEIVERSHIP SUIT DISMISSED

Missouri Business School in Good Condition, Court Finds.

The suit of Joseph J. Wolf, 5297 Louisiana avenue, for a Receiver for the Missouri Business School, 2743 Cherokee street, was dismissed yesterday by Circuit Judge Hartmann. Evidence showed the school to be in good condition.

Wolf, a stockholder and teacher, alleged that Miss Lottie Reinhardt, president, had used his 24 shares of stock as collateral for a bank loan, but she asserted she had advanced her own stock.

COMPOSER DEAD

WILLIAM JOHN HALL

WILLIAM JOHN HALL
FUNERAL TOMORROW

Services for Musician and Composer Will Be Held at Church of the Messiah.

Funeral services for William John Hall, musician and composer, who died of pneumonia yesterday at St. John's Hospital, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the Church of the Messiah, Union boulevard and Enright avenue.

Mr. Hall was 64 years old and resided at 9712 Lookout drive. For the last 11 years he had devoted most of his time to supervising music courses at Soldan High School. He taught classes in harmony and composition and trained the Boys' Glee Club.

His extravaganza, "Louisiana," was produced here at the World's Fair, when he also served as a juror to pass on the music books of foreign countries. He wrote 12 other operas, three cantatas, two tone poems for symphony orchestra, and many songs and pieces for piano and organ.

He appeared several times as tenor soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, and was nationally known as a song recitalist and concert organist. Many of his voice pupils are on the concert or operatic stage. For six years he was chairman of the Music Committee of the Municipal Opera.

Mr. Hall was born in London and from his eighth year was a soloist in London churches. He studied

A NEW discovery, a secret French formula, will show you in less than ten minutes how easily you can have a clear, flawless white skin. You simply spread a fragrant, pure white cream, called Bonilla Lemon-Magnesia Pack, on your face and neck. In nine minutes it dries into a soft, pliable mask. You remove the mask and find that your skin is two to three shades whiter, clear, soft, and with natural color no rouge can bring. Lemon and magnesia, wonderful purifiers and whiteners, combined with other secret ingredients, act immediately to remove all discolorations—tan—sallow-ness—age signs. Blackheads and blemishes disappear, and your complexion becomes invisible. Tired, wrinkled skin is tightened and lifted.

Experience this new beauty thrill tonight. Get Bonilla Lemon-Magnesia Pack today in a big generous dollar-size jar at any good drug or department store. Money refunded if not delighted.

New Kind of Corn Remedy Ends Pain by Double Action

An entirely new principle for the treatment of corns and bunions is winning fame among sufferers. It is called Double Action because it is the one method that does the two things essential to end corn misery. Just touch the corn or bunion with No. 1 remedy to end pain quickly. Then the corn can be removed in a few minutes. Next touch it with No. 2 remedy daily for a few days to keep the corn bed soft and avoid regrowth. Treatments that merely reduce the pain do not accomplish this. Test Dr. Woofler's Double Action Corn and Bunion Remedy on a guarantee of money back if it doesn't end corn and bunion misery.

Did your Child have a bad cold last week?

If your child had a bad cold last week, don't be content just because the child is no longer hacking and sneezing. A cold is bad enough, but a child that catches cold easily and often, needs attention.

Half-sick, pale, run-down children do not have the strength to resist disease and throw off infection. The after-effects of a cold can be very serious. Start now to build up weight and strength.

Father John's Medicine has been proved for over 75 years by countless mothers. It is used regularly by over 184 institutions and hospitals. It is a simple food medicine that supplies the vitamins that every child needs. Children thrive on it amazingly. Their appetite improves, their very food seems to do them more good. Pale cheeks glisten with health. Little bodies become strong and vigorous.

Father John's Medicine is a combination of simple food elements, none of which could harm an infant. Because of its scientific combination of ingredients it brings all the benefits of cod liver oil in the form best suited to a growing child's needs. It is easily assimilated by even the most delicate stomach. It tastes good and contains no alcohol or drugs. If your child had a cold last week, start now with Father John's Medicine. Don't take needless chances when this simple aid will help build strength and vigor. All druggists have it.

Interesting Homes are Mirrors of Those who live in themThey have a subtle air of charm and graciousness... in their furnishings...their arrangements for living comfort...especially telephone convenience

HOMES reflect the personalities of their owners. A few are dull, lifeless, inconvenient; others are sparkling and joyous—a pleasure to visit because you know they are a pleasure to live in.

And in these homes you will find that things are planned with a view to greatest comfort and convenience. Telephones, for instance, are located wherever they will save steps and time and effort. By an easy chair in the sun parlor...in the breakfast nook, or kitchen...on the library table...bedchambers and guest room...maid's room...in fact, everywhere they will bring ease in placing and answering calls. Even in a small home, you can save an extraordinary amount of time and many, many steps by having enough telephones.

It may be crispy cold outside, but here it is warm and cozy...with the late afternoon sun streaming through the windows...a comfortable chair and a good book...and, of course, a telephone right at hand for that final touch of complete convenience. A modern note, surely...and a sign of sensible living.

Telephone convenience is almost a necessity in modern homes. And its cost is surprisingly moderate. We will be glad to help you select the best locations in your own home for telephones. Just call the Business Office, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

VETO OF REPEAL OF MAJOR STREET PLAN ADVOCATED

Federation of Improvement Associations Submits Statement to Mayor Miller on Southwest Project.

In an effort to induce Mayor Miller to veto the ordinance passed recently by the Board of Aldermen, repealing the ordinance for condemnation of the Southwest Highway right-of-way, the Federation of Improvement Associations has given the Mayor a written argument.

Mayor Miller said today he would veto the repeal bill if an opinion he has requested from City Counselor Muench should hold the city would be liable for damages to those property owners who already have moved their property back from the proposed right-of-way in anticipation of the work. He did not indicate whether he would veto it for any other reason.

The day after the Aldermen passed the repeal measure by a vote of 25 to one, in the presence of a noisy crowd of opponents of the thoroughfare, the Mayor told reporters he would sign the bill as soon as it reached him. Later, however he said his mind was open and subject to change. The 10-day period after passage required by the charter before the Mayor can sign an ordinance expired yesterday. He has until Feb. 23 to sign or veto it.

Supporters of the improvement have hoped that the Mayor could be induced to see good political strategy in a veto. They think that enough votes against the repeal—10 or more—might be mustered in the Board of Aldermen to prevent passage of the repeal over the veto by the required two-thirds vote.

Aldermen Taken by Surprise. Unexpectedly, so far as most of the Aldermen were concerned, the Streets Committee decided two days ahead of a board meeting, to report the repeal bill without recommendation, forcing the board to the embarrassing action of considering it publicly in committee of the whole. Some Aldermen were frank enough to admit afterwards that they would not have voted as they did if they had not been taken by surprise with the demonstrative crowd present.

Alderman Krueger of the Twenty-fourth Ward alone fought against repeal. He and 13 others of the 28 board members are seeking renomination in the primary of next March 13. Most of those up for re-election feared the effect on their political fortunes if they voted in a seemingly unpopular way on a matter attracting wide attention. Now proponents of the highway plan are trying to show them that public sentiment is for the improvement and that it would not work a hardship, as claimed, on the objectors. Krueger believes that he has gained political strength rather than lost it. Mayor Miller is for Krueger, who has an opponent supported by the anti-highway interests.

Southwest Highway, paralleling the southwestern city limits, would extend from Alabama avenue and Davis street, where U. S. Highway No. 61 enters the city, to Jamieson avenue and Arsenal street, calling for widening of existing streets in places and opening in other sections.

The Federation of Improvement Associations is an active city-wide organization headed by Elmer B. Klein of the Southampton Development League and Holly Hills Improvement Association. Its statement for the Mayor was prepared by Frank E. Lawrence, assistant director of the Civic Development Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce and former secretary of the City Plan Commission.

Part of Co-Ordinated Scheme. The statement called attention to the official major street plan, designed to correct the defects of the old street system by "a co-ordinated scheme of continuous, well-balanced highways, providing direct and consequently shorter mileage among all sections." Southwest Highway was part of this plan, in the one part of the city, which, for lack of development in the past, had not been subjected to bad street planning, the statement continued. This highway was to tie with others going all around the city's outer edge for 19 miles, the argument went on, and being as important in its region as Broadway along the eastern edge of town.

In recent subdivisions, real estate developers already have provided the needed 100-foot right-of-way for more than half of the five-mile length of Southwest Highway. Possibly as many as 1,000 lots in these subdivisions have been sold with the expectation by purchasers that the highway would come through, and repeal would be a grave injustice to these buyers, the statement argued.

Handicap to New Industries. Relating that a spectator in the Board of Aldermen when the repeal was passed had remarked to another, "Do you feel like locating in St. Louis after this nonprogressive demonstration?" Lawrence asserted that repeal might hamper efforts to bring industries here. He declared that the major street plan was conceived after much thought and study of the needs of the whole community, and was based on actual needs of a progressive city. The statement maintained that the majority of citizens, in the opinion of the Federation of Improvement Associations, do not want to abandon this plan. Alderman Krueger, the statement averred, "has won the commendation of the progressive citizenship for his steadfast espousal of the cause of orderly growth in the community." His position was described as the result of vision comparable to that by which Forest Park was obtained.

Concluding the statement to the Mayor said: "The citizens of St. Louis are now confronted with a situation that has in it the answer as to whether or not this city shall go forward or backward. The welfare of the community depends entirely upon what decision the citizens make in relation to this problem. The problem is that of whether the people of St. Louis desire their public officials to follow a definite and economical program of public improvements, or whether small groups, looking at the problem from a purely local standpoint, are going to be permitted, through vociferous and misguided direction, to upset this co-ordination of public improvements.

"If St. Louis is to go forward, it must make improvements to provide for the increasing traffic volume resulting from increased use of the automobile and increasing population, and the bringing of new industry to the community—improvements which are vital to the economic conduct of business. The recent action of the Board of Aldermen in approving a bill to repeal the ordinance for the creation of an important unit in the major street system, brings to a climax the entire principle of directed city growth. This measure was not designed as a means of beauty, but was proposed entirely for the purpose of developing a needed utility."

BARES PLOT TO KILL PRIEST

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—State Attorney Swanson said last night he would place before the grand jury the story of George Sutko, 21 years old, that he had been hired by a group of deposed trustees of St. Mary's Church, Greek orthodox, to kill the priest, the Rev. Milan Hranilovich. After agreeing, Sutko said, his religious views caused him to abandon the plan. He said he went to the priest, instead, and surrendered his weapon. He told Swanson the ex-trustees had left Chicago to establish alibis.

Mexican Railways Shorten Hours
 By the Associated Press.
 MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10.—More than 9000 shop employees of the National Railways were affected yesterday by a reduction of working hours and a consequent slump in pay. The working week was cut from 48 to 32 hours, the company taking this step in preference to laying off part of the force. Shops in Mexico City, Monterrey, Chihuahua and other cities were affected.

TWO PLANS AFOOT TO REHABILITATE L. E. ANDERSON CO.
 F. C. Rand Sponsors One to Take Concern Out of Receivership and Arrange for Liquidation.

Two movements, different in character, are being carried forward to make possible payment of creditors of Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co., St. Louis brokerage house which went into receivership and was suspended from four stock exchanges on Jan. 22.

One of them, understood to be backed by Frank C. Rand, chairman of the board of the International Shoe Co., and a financial backer of the brokerage house, contemplates liquidation of creditors' claims by sale of the concern's assets to another company, or by other means.

The second plan, it is learned, calls for additional investments of approximately 10 per cent of their present holdings by the creditors, who have claims of approximately $10,000,000. This money should be used to rehabilitate the company, to make possible the moving of its assets or their retention until a more opportune time for sale, and in general to provide the basis for putting the company into business either under its present or another name.

Rand's Statement.
 In discussing the liquidation plan the following statement was issued last night by Rand:
 "In a statement published a few days ago after the receivers were appointed for Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co., reference was made to a group of men who worked earnestly to avoid receivership for that company.
 "After these efforts were unsuccessful and the receivers appointed, nothing could be done by creditors and others until the books were audited and a statement published.
 "Since the statement of the receivers was presented to the court, a group of large creditors, bankers and friends has devoted considerable time to the study of the entire situation. These gentlemen are trying to perfect a plan that will warrant a discontinuance of the receivership and place the affairs of Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co. in the hands of a liquidating company for the benefit of all creditors, who, after all, are the ones most interested."

New Capital Offered.
 "No plan can be announced until details are completed and proposals drafted for submission to creditors in order to get their sympathetic co-operation for a successful liquidation of the company.
 "New capital in amounts sufficient to meet the company's needs has been offered and can be quickly secured. It is hoped the plan now being considered will meet with such universal approval that this new money will become quickly available for the full payment of all creditors."

Under the plan of reorganization by means of further investments of creditors it is understood approximately $1,000,000 would be raised by assessing creditors 10 per cent of the amount of their claims. Liability of the company total approximately $10,000,000.
 The money so raised would be augmented, it is said, by an additional $1,000,000 which sponsors of the plan think they can raise through further investments by certain St. Louis shoe manufacturers. It is generally considered among sponsors of the plan that $2,000,000 would be enough to set the company on its feet again.

85 Per Cent of Creditors Must Consent.
 To make such a plan operative it is said that 85 per cent of the creditors must consent to its adoption. Approximately 85 per cent of the claims against the company are held by 18 individuals who were heavy investors in the brokerage company.

If the second reorganization plan is carried through it is understood the company would be headed by Charles D. F. Hamilton Jr., one of the receivers as well as one of the largest creditors of the concern.
 In answer to an inquiry today about reorganization plans, Rodowe H. Abeken, Hamilton's co-receiver, said:
 "Plans are definitely under way for a reorganization which will enable the business to carry on and make possible the discharge of all obligations of Lorenzo E. Anderson & Co. without loss to creditors."

Fashions in Women . . have changed

It used to be fashionable to be stupid about money matters. Women especially weren't supposed to understand them. Those who did pretended not to, for it was stylish to get a headache over figures.

But the silly little thing, who was too nice to ask prices a few years ago, is decidedly old-fashioned now. The modern woman takes pride in getting her money's worth.

The fashionable woman of today is a keen, shrewd buyer. She can pick as good a bargain in a grocery store as her husband can in his office. She's in the business of keeping house . . . And, more often than not, she's a steady A & P customer.

The Great ATLANTIC & PACIFIC Tea Co.

Huge Crop in California!

NOW you and all your family can have oranges and orange juice every day.

Health authorities advise it. It keeps you fit. And California's big crop brings you Sunkist Seedless Oranges—the pick of them all—at prices you like to pay.

Look for the trademark "Sunkist" on the skin and tissue wrapper, and be sure of Sunkist's five advantages. Order a week's supply at a time. Get the extra savings your grocer gives when you buy several dozen or a box.

DIRECT APPEAL TO INDIVIDUALS BY RED CROSS

Personal Solicitation of Wealthy Who Have Not Contributed to Drouth Relief Is Begun.

Personal solicitation of firms and persons of wealth not so far contributing to the $10,000,000 American Red Cross drouth relief fund was begun today by the Citizens' Committee in charge of raising the $250,000 quota of the St. Louis Chapter.

This method, unusual in Red Cross disaster appeals, was resorted to in an effort to stimulate persons of means who have been in a striking minority among the givers. Workers pointed out that only 5000 persons had contributed in a district of more than 1,000,000 population. The amount most generally given is $10, and it has come in most cases from givers who, themselves, were obviously not in the most comfortable circumstances.

Total contributions so far are $122,500. Ralston-Purina Mills gave $1284, including $56 from employees and $200 from its head, W. H. Danforth.

St. Louisans send their gifts to Oliver F. Richards, treasurer, Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co., Eighth and Locust streets.

Food donations of 200 carloads—8,000,000 pounds—were announced by William M. Baxter Jr., at mid-western area headquarters here. The principal gifts were flour, meal and vegetables, a health need in the southern drouth area.

There were two carloads of eggs—288,000—from Iowa, two carloads of salt herring from Minnesota, a carload of live poultry from Nebraska, three carloads of evaporated milk from Wisconsin and a carload of dried milk from California. The food donations supplement the rations provided by the Red Cross through money gifts.

CREW OF SHIP PICKED UP

25 Men on British Vessel Rescued Off Coast of Colombia.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 10.—The Tropical Radio Station here last night announced that all members of the crew of the British steamship Chancellor, which went aground off the coast of Colombia, at Gallinas Point yesterday had been picked up from small boats by the steamer Tekoa.

The crew is reported to have numbered 25 and the Tekoa is said to have arranged to land them at Colon, C. Z.

Meyerbeer's Daughter, 92, Dies.

By the Associated Press.

SALZBURG, Germany, Feb. 10.—Baroness Cecilie von Adrian zu Wertheim, daughter of Giacomo Meyerbeer, the composer, died here today. She was 92 years old. She had the liveliest recollection of her famous father and during the years she had made her home here she exhibited an unflinching interest in young people and in modern jazz music. She was born in Paris on March 10, 1839.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study. Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and help overcome constipation. Take nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c.

ILLINOIS GETS NO INTEREST ON TAX FOR MOTOR FUEL

Director of Finance Kinney Makes no Return on Funds, Held Temporarily in Private Bank Accounts

SAYS DEPOSITORIES PAY HIM NOTHING

Secretary of State's Payment of $17,285 That His Collections Earned Embarrasses Others.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 10.—
The time-honored practice by certain Illinois officeholders of holding official funds temporarily in private bank accounts before turning them in to the treasury has produced a strange and politically embarrassing anomaly in the management of State finances.

William J. Stratton, now entering his third year as Secretary of State, created the situation almost two years ago, when he began to turn in to the Treasurer the interest earned by State funds while they were reposing in his private bank accounts. Last year the interest so earned totaled $17,285.

In sharp contrast, Garrett DeF.
Kinney, director of finance by appointment of Gov. Emmerson, makes no return of interest on State funds held in his accounts.
Last year, with his collections of motor fuel tax totaling $27,783,
—as compared to $22,750,000 collected by the Secretary of State
—the State of Illinois got not a cent of interest from the money held temporarily in Kinney's private accounts.

Says He Gets No Interest.
Director Kinney, former State Treasurer and a florist manufacturer and banker, declares the banks in which he deposits his funds pay him no interest on them.
One of them, a Springfield bank, is also a depository of Secretary of State Stratton. It pays Stratton 1 per cent on his daily balances, just as do approximately 40 other banks in which the Secretary's funds are deposited.

The principal depositories of Director Kinney are the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Co. and the Foreman-State National Bank, of Chicago. Both pay 1 1/2 per cent on daily balances over $1000.
Officials of the institutions refused, however to discuss with the correspondent the accounts of the director of finance, holding that such details were confidential.

As explained by Director Kinney, the practice of holding state funds grows out of the necessity of clearing checks before account is made for them to the State Treasurer. Thus, when Director Kinney's office receives a check in payment of the Illinois motor fuel tax of 3 cents a gallon, it is deposited in one of his accounts.
Payments from the accounts are made periodically, from one to five times a month, to the State Treasurer.

For funds in the Treasurer's hands the State draws 2 per cent interest on fluctuating amounts and 2 per cent on accounts that remain stable in amount.

Kinney Upholds Practice.
"Not a cent of interest is paid by the banks handling my accounts," Kinney said. "As a matter of fact, there is so much trouble attendant upon handling the numerous checks, and taking care of protests and such details, that there would be no profit in paying any interest."

He was reminded that the depositories of Secretary Stratton not only pay 1 per cent but also pay for the surety bonds required to insure the State against loss of its funds in case of bank failure.

"I don't think his method is as sound as mine," Kinney replied.
"He keeps his money in small banks and I doubt very much whether his surety bonds will be much help in case of failure. The big banks, you know, just won't pay interest on funds of such a nature."

Director Kinney acknowledged that the Secretary of State's funds consisting mainly of auto license fees, were of much the same character as his own, but maintained that his was the proper business practice.

Asserts He Doesn't Use Own Bank
Kinney is a director of the Commercial-Merchants' National Bank and Trust Co. of Peoria, largest Illinois bank outside Chicago.

He asserted he deposited no funds in his own bank, regarding such action as improper. William Hazard, vice president and cashier of the bank, told the correspondent Director Kinney had an account with the bank but that "it does not amount to much."
"As to the Finance Department account," he added in reply to question, "I won't say whether it

Secretary of State's Payment of $17,285 That His Collections Earned Embarrasses Others.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 10.—The time-honored practice by certain Illinois officials of holding official funds temporarily in private bank accounts before turning them in to the treasury has produced a strange and politically embarrassing anomaly in the management of State finances.

William J. Stratton, now entering his third year as Secretary of State, created the situation almost two years ago, when he began to turn in to the Treasurer the interest earned by State funds while they were deposited in his private bank accounts.

In sharp contrast, Garrett DeF. Kinney, director of Finance by appointment of Gov. Emmerson, makes no return of interest on State funds held in his accounts.

Last year, with his collections of motor fuel tax totaling $27,332, he—compared to $22,750,000 collected by the Secretary of State—the State of Illinois got not a cent of interest from the money held temporarily in Kinney's private accounts.

Director Kinney, former State Treasurer and a Peoria manufacturer and banker, declares the banks in which he deposits his funds pay him no interest on them. One of them, a Springfield bank, is also a depository of Secretary of State Stratton. It pays Stratton 1 per cent on his daily balances, but as do approximately 40 other banks in which the Secretary's funds are deposited.

He asserted he deposited no funds in his own bank, regarding such action as improper. William Hazard, vice president and cash-ier of the bank, told the correspondent Director Kinney had a personal account with the bank but that it "does not amount to much."

RUSSIA TO TAKE PART IN EUROPEAN UNION STUDY

Soviet Reserves Right to Define Attitude Later—Questions Whether One Federation or Two Groups Are Planned.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Feb. 10.—Soviet Russia will participate in the work of the commission studying plans for a European federation, the Government notified the League of Nations yesterday, but reserves the right to define its attitude toward the commission at a later date.

The commission invited Russia, Turkey and Iceland to participate in the economic phases of the discussion and this led Foreign Minister Litvinoff, in a note, to express doubt as to whether the proposed federation meant a single group of European Powers or two opposing groups.

"It seems strange and incomprehensible," he said, "that one group of European states should take it upon itself to decide as to the admission or nonadmission of another group of European states into a community calling itself Pan-European, more especially so when a country like Switzerland occupying four-tenths of one per cent of the territory of Europe, or Norway, occupying about 3.1 per cent, oppose the admission of a state like the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics."

Immensity of Russia. "The Soviet Union occupies in Europe alone territory amounting to approximately 45 per cent of the whole of Europe and more than twice the combined territory of France, Belgium, Rumania, do or do not pay any interest. I am not familiar with it and would have no room for it."

Director Kinney commented that if Hazard made the statement that the bank had an account with him, he was mistaken.

He named as his principal depositories the two Chicago banks, which pay interest on daily balances, and added he kept a small balance from time to time in the Ridgely-Farmers State Bank of Springfield, of which Gov. Emmerson is one of the founders and a vice president.

Depositories That Pay Stratton. The Ridgely-Farmers State Bank is also a depository of Secretary of State Stratton. On his deposits, it pays 1 per cent interest, and in addition foots the cost of its surety bond to insure the funds against loss.

Another bank which pays 1 per cent on Secretary Stratton's funds under the same conditions is the Third National Bank at Mount Vernon, Ill. It was founded in 1921 by Gov. Emmerson, then Secretary of State, who became its president.

Gov. Emmerson was Stratton's predecessor as Secretary of State and for 12 years in that office turned over no interest to the State on money held temporarily in his accounts.

Asked to comment on Secretary Stratton's new method which netted the State more than $17,000 last year, Gov. Emmerson said he understood it "was a good thing." He would not say whether or not he would recommend that other departments adopt the same plan.

Secretary Stratton, a Lake County farmer, is in his first major State job. He has not been regarded as an important figure in the ruling Illinois political machine and he does not have the background of banking experience that characterizes a surprisingly large percentage of Illinois politicians.

One of his campaign promises was for the return of interest to the Treasury, and the machinery for carrying it out was put into operation almost immediately after he took office.

"After all," he told the correspondent, "it's the State's money, isn't it? It seems to me the State should get the interest on it. And it hasn't been much trouble to handle the collection, either. I haven't added any clerical help like some of my critics said I would have to do to keep books on our deposits."

"I suppose maybe I could arrange to collect the interest for myself. But I don't live on a big scale. My salary ($10,000 a year) is plenty for me to live on, so I'm going to keep on turning in the interest on my funds, even if everybody isn't in favor of it."

State Auditor Not Interested. State Auditor Oscar Nelson like Kinney, a former State Treasurer and an outstanding figure in Illinois Republican politics, told the correspondent he was not interested in inquiring why Kinney did not collect interest, and turn it in to the State Treasury.

"The Secretary of State is the only one that does it," Nelson, a Geneva banker, said. "It's a waste of time and not worth the trouble. It only nets the State a few dollars anyhow."

"I wouldn't take such an ac-

Jugo-Slavia, Switzerland, Spain, Holland, Sweden, Denmark and Norway.

"However, it is assumed that despite the name of the organization that sends the invitation to the Soviet Union, not a union of European states, is meant, but the creation in Europe of two groups, according to formal jurisdictional, social and political characteristics. The question inevitably arises whether both sides of the organization will enjoy equal, identical rights."

Litvinoff added that the invitation was not clear as to whether the commission regarded itself competent to exclude Russia, at any moment, from the discussions when they concern "precisely those matters which affect and interest the Soviet Union more than any other."

Reserves Final Decision. These doubts, he said, could not be resolved outside the actual committee sessions, and Russia had, therefore, decided to take part, "reserving its final attitude toward the commission's further labors until the points raised have been cleared up and until it has been able to study the commission itself."

Such participation was based on the principle that the new organization should not "oppose itself to any ethnic group in other continents or in Europe itself," he concluded.

count in my bank at 1 per cent. It isn't worth it because there's too much work connected with its handling to make it profitable. The best way to handle such a situation is to turn in the funds to the Treasury just as quickly as you can."

"The people of Illinois are getting a fine administration of the money they pay in taxes. A few times may get away here and there through one cause or another, but in the last analysis the public should be highly pleased with the way its money is spent."

Although the temporary holding of State funds in private accounts is a practice of long standing, it is held by many lawyers to be in direct violation of the Constitution which specifies that funds collected by State officers must be paid "in advance" into the Treasury, meaning, it is contended, in advance of rendering the service for which the fees in question are paid.

Under a law passed in 1921, officers may make their remittances to the Treasurer once a month. The Secretary of State and the Director of Finance are the only officers, except the Treasurer, who collect great sums of money for the State.

INCREASE IN STEEL WORKERS

Employees Added, Two Mills Reopen in Wheeling District.

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 10.—One hundred more men went to work yesterday at the Benwood plant of the Wheeling Steel Corporation and the Yorkville plant of the company began operating at 75 per cent of capacity with 1500 men employed. The Yorkville plant has been operating at 50 per cent of capacity. The company's Steubenville works is operating on a 60 per cent basis.

The Toronto and Follansbee Steel Mills of Follansbee Brothers, which have been idle, opened with 1500 men and orders sufficient to operate until March and possibly through that month. The Weirton Steel Mills added nearly 300 men to the payroll, making the total employed 65 per cent of the normal number.

CARDIFF, Wales, Feb. 10.—A peace agreement, operative until Jan. 1, 1934, was signed yesterday by owners and miners of the South Wales coal fields, which were closed by a strike from New Year's day until Jan. 19.

Yesterday's agreement, following one which sent the men back to work three weeks ago, provides for a board of conciliation to settle future disputes, each side to name 14 men and an independent chairman to preside.

COMMUNISTS GO TO CAPITOL; BARRED FROM HOUSE FLOOR

Permitted to Enter Gallery but One of Them Begins to Shout—He and Woman Sympathizer Are Ousted.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—A delegation of Communists who marched peacefully to the Capitol today remained to argue with Congressmen and House attaches after they were refused permission to appear on the House floor.

An extra delegation of policemen listened to the discussion as the group was told to give their petition to the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House.

Alfred Wagenknecht, Sam Nessen and Sol Harper, New York Negro, their leaders, said they felt they should be allowed to see Speaker Longworth.

When Sergeant-at-Arms Rodgers insisted the Communists had no right on the House floor, Harper responded: "Your job is to see that the workers are heard in submission, so why should I give the petition to you?"

Congressman Beedy (Rep., Maine, asked Nessen how long it had been since the Communist had worked at his profession. Nessen replied he had been a workers' organizer for two years, and had not done any metal work in that time. Then he asked Beedy how long it has been since the Congressman "worked." Beedy replied: "I worked last night, and work most every night."

The argument subsided and the group was allowed to enter the House public gallery. They filled it quickly. Several plainclothesmen were sprinkled among them. About 50 gathered in the hallway leading into the gallery and there were lined up by Capitol and Metropolitan police. As their comrades emerged after entering the gallery, the two had protested against the right of mounted officers to force them to move from the crosswalks of the Common. The said that they had not taken part in the demonstration and had created no disturbance. Mr. Bakeman was upset into a snow bank when one of the horses swerved. They were induced to leave the Common, but later were arrested they became involved in a discussion with other officers outside.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 10.—A throng of unemployed marched to the City Hall today and presented demands for relief to members of the city administration.

The demands were formulated at a mass meeting last night addressed by William Z. Foster, New York Communist, recently imprisoned for inciting a riot in Union Square.

Judge H. F. McElroy, receiving the demands from Jesse Allen of the Unemployment Council affiliated with the Trade Union Unity League, expressed sympathy for the unemployed. He said it was neither the fault of the potential worker nor of the city government.

SOME IMPROVEMENTS IN WORLD BUSINESS INDICATED

Commerce Department Gives Summary of Trends in Number of Counties.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Some indications of improvement in world business are dealt with today in the Commerce Department's weekly review, but current dullness is said to continue in most territories.

"While practically all regions continue to report depression, factors foreshadowing improvement have been observed in several countries," the summary says.

The report says that in Germany January retail sales reflect a considerable latent demand for goods if prices are sufficiently low; that the Czechoslovakian steel industry has improved slightly; that no evidences of gain are seen in France, which is sharing more completely in the general depression; that Spanish business remains also somewhat down; that in Switzerland small inventories forecast a spring revival and purchasing power is believed to be reviving; that business conditions in Canada have revived somewhat; that the Japanese industrial position appears somewhat stronger, with further weakness of silver renewing trade unsettlement in China; that a slight gain in piece goods movement in India contrasts with an otherwise unfavorable situation; that the rice crop outlook in Java has been improved by heavy rains; that wool prices in Australia have firmed noticeably; that a slight recovery from low levels in import trade is expected in Brazil, and that further curtailment of mining is expected in Mexico.

BOSTON, Feb. 10.—Twelve persons, including two women and two clergymen, were arrested when police dispersed an unemployment demonstration of Communists on Boston Common today. One of the clergymen, the Rev. Robert A. Bakeman, former Mayor of Peabody, was knocked down by the horse of a mounted policeman but was uninjured.

The other clergyman was the Rev. Smith O. Dexter, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church in Concord. The two had protested against the right of mounted officers to force them to move from the crosswalks of the Common. INDIA DEDICATES NEW CAPITOL THAT COST $100,000,000

Building at New Delhi 19 Years in Making—Viceroy Lord Irwin Presides at Ceremony.

By the Associated Press.

NEW DELHI, Feb. 10.—Almost on the same spot where 600 years ago the mighty Tamerlane slaughtered 100,000 inhabitants of Delhi, Viceroy Lord Irwin today dedicated India's new $100,000,000 imperial capitol here.

It is a magnificent modern structure of marble and red sandstone which in its architecture typifies the entire history of India. Because of recent terrorist outbreaks pains were taken to protect the Viceroy and other notables.

The capitol was conceived and planned 19 years ago as a "monument to the ideal and fact of British rule in India." The Government represents the seventh to occupy the plains of Delhi. From the walls of the new building as the Viceroy spoke there could be seen the historic and scarred environs of the old city strewn with remnants of dead dynasties.

Clemenceau, shown the new building before he died, remarked half facetiously, half seriously, "Perhaps the new Delhi, as the seventh capital on this site, will be the greatest ruin of them all."

Today's function was one of the last over which Viceroy Lord Irwin will preside. He will surrender his post in a few weeks to Viscount Willingdon, who has just been made an Earl by King George.

COMPROMISE ON RELIEF DENOUNCED AS "SURRENDER"

Senator Finds Senate Back-down Humiliating; Expects Body to Pass $20,000,000 for Loans.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—In concluding today a bitter and comprehensive attack on the Hoover-Robinson compromise, whereby $20,000,000 is to be voted for "rehabilitation" loans in the drought areas, the young insurgent Senator from Wisconsin, Robert M. La Follette Jr., declared that the Democratic leadership in Congress had repudiated the mandate given the party in the elections of 1930.

Branding the so-called compromise as in fact a humiliating surrender to the executive, La Follette said that the Senate, like the legendary army of the King of France, had marched up the hill and marched down again. "We have surrendered here a great principle," he exclaimed, "the principle that in an emergency a Government will take care of its citizens—that it will afford relief to the innocent victims of disasters. That was an underlying issue in the campaign of 1930, and it will be an issue in the campaign of 1932."

Votes Are "Gathered in." In a fiery climax, La Follette asserted that, if Senators voted their honest convictions on relief measures, the conference report emanating from the Senate would be a "surrender."

ST. CHARLES TAKES ITS WATERWORKS 'OUT OF POLITICS'

Mayor May Considers Public Works Ordinance Step Toward City Ownership of Light Plant.

Creation of a Board of Public Works by an ordinance passed last night by the City Council of St. Charles, Mo., is regarded by Mayor May as a step toward a municipally owned and operated electric light and power plant.

The immediate function of the Board of Public Works will be the operation of the city's waterworks, removing it from political control. The four members will be appointed by the Mayor, subject to confirmation by the Council, for terms of one, two, three and four years, and their successors will be named for four-year terms.

May, who has advocated the newly created waterworks board for the past two years, said after passage of the ordinance: "I believe it's one of the greatest steps forward in the city's history." Immediately following his election in 1927 he announced that one of the aims of his administration would be to continue a fight he had made six years previously for a city-owned light plant.

The board of public works whose function will be similar to that of the Park Board and the Library Board is the outgrowth of a citizens' committee report submitted to the Council last fall in which it was recommended that the control of utility systems be taken "out of politics." The group headed by former Mayor Joseph H. Lackland and including Dr. W. L. Freeman, Harry Klenker, Frank Armond and George Wallenbrock was delegated to investigate the advisability of municipal ownership of an electrical power plant. The citizens' group worked in conjunction with a Council committee, consisting of Louis Ebeling, chairman; George V. Dieker, Harry L. Chrimer and George Feldman.

Their decision as voiced in the report was unequivocally in favor of municipal control and carried the suggestion that the city build its own plant in conjunction with its waterworks plant. Through the Union Electric Light & Power Co., which now supplies current for the electrified waterworks in addition to the street lights at a cost of approximately $24,000 annually besides supplying the commercial demand for electricity, holds a franchise that does not expire until 1932, May contends that now is the time to begin to "educate the public against the excessive rates now assessed by the corporation" and to instruct them of the benefits of municipally operated systems.

The waterworks plant which was bought from private owners in 1901 under a special bond issue, is now clear of indebtedness and has netted the city approximately $21,000 profit. Of that amount, $19,000 has been set aside toward the accumulation of a depreciation and improvement fund with the idea of creating a fund for construction of a filtration system within the near future.

Tries Extortion From Father.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOONVILLE, Mo., Feb. 10.—Sheriff Groom and deputies last night arrested Earl Miller, 20 years old, on a charge of attempting to extort $1000 from his father, S. F. Miller, wealthy farmer living near Cotton.

A letter was written to the father Saturday demanding that the money be left at the Montau bridge Monday night. The letter was signed with a cross mark. The money was placed at the bridge at 9 o'clock last night, the officers stationing themselves nearby. The youth came at 10:10 o'clock for the money. The Sheriff reported the youth reached for a revolver but was subdued. He was said to have admitted writing the extortion letter, saying he needed "spending money."

the compromise would be overwhelmingly defeated. He said, however, that he had no such hope. He realized that the votes had been "gathered in" to pass the measure.

This was the general feeling about the Senate as the debate proceeded. It seemed likely, despite the intensity of feeling with which the compromise was fought by the Republican insurgents and some of the Democrats, that not more than a score of votes could be mustered against it.

Philosophy of the Fight.
Young La Follette, in the manner that was characteristic of his father, went searching into the whole history of the philosophy of the fight for and against direct Federal aid from the Treasury for citizens in distress.

He asserted that, when the government refused to make grants for relief from the Federal Treasury, it shifted the burden from the payors of income taxes, on whom it should properly rest, and laid it on the masses paying the property tax.

As for the cry of "dole" which the administration raised against the proposed grant of $25,000,000 to the Red Cross, La Follette said he failed to see the difference between a dollar appropriated from the Federal Treasury and a dollar taken from a State or City Treasury. If the former dollar tended to "break down American character," so also, he said, must the latter.

"And while you are talking about the breakdown of American character," he said, "what do you think is happening to the character of the men and women who are suffering from hunger and cold? What sort of citizens are you going to produce by the failure of the Government to meet this situation?"

"Mr. Hoover rushed to the relief of the income taxpayers after the stock market crash of 1929. There was no cry of dole when the administration jammed through its $160,000,000 tax relief measure for their particular benefit. There was no cry that the granting of this relief would 'violate a sound American principle.'"

"Hardened His Heart."
"Yes, the rich taxpayers and the great corporations were the beneficiaries of the humanitarian instincts of the President. But he has hardened his heart against the suffering in the industrial centers of the country from unemployment and the suffering in 21 states from the drouth. He says that not a dollar of Federal money must be given to these victims."

He contrasted the "heartless attitude" of the President toward undernourished children in the drouth areas with the appeal that he made for German children in 1924.

La Follette said that a conservative estimate showed 6,000,000 persons unemployed in the United States and at least 5,000,000 more on part time employment. For Congress to dither without appropriating a cent for relief in the industrial areas, he said, would be a breach of faith with the people.

What was being done for the drouth area, La Follette continued, was woefully inadequate. "It is obvious," he said, "that under the terms of this bill only those can get loans who are able to provide security. Those most in need of relief will be unable to get anything. There are thousands upon thousands of destitute farmers who can't furnish security of any kind."

Taking issue with Minority Leader Robinson, La Follette said that little could be accomplished through strengthening the credit facilities of the intermediate banks. He said the laws creating these banks were such as to keep them from being of any real service in an emergency like the present.

"To hold out the hope that the intermediate credit banks can save the situation," he said, "will result in tragic disappointment to those in need."

All Bound Round in Red Tape.
La Follette read from the strongest regulations governing the administration of the previously voted $45,000,000 loan fund to show that the whole business of granting relief was deplorably bound up in red tape.

"And this so-called compromise," he went on, "provides that loans to individual farmers shall be secured by liens on crop or by other security prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture. He will be derelict in his duty if he does not require security. Either this law will have to be administered by the Secretary without regard to its provisions or it is clearly a sham."

"At the head of the application blanks for loans," said La Follette, "was printed a warning to farmers that any violation of the law governing loans would be punished with a jail sentence or fine or both."

"If I were a farmer in Arkansas," commented the speaker, "I should be tempted to violate the law and go to jail, for the per diem allowance for prisoners in that State is greater than the amount the Red Cross is furnishing distressed farmers."

Senator Norris, another of the Republican independents, took the Senate coalition to task for "retreating" on the relief issue. He recalled the contention of President Hoover that no Federal funds should be appropriated for food purchases.

Norris paraphrased the sermon on the Mount as follows: "Blessed are they who follow the President; for they shall inherit the political plum tree and enjoy the fruits thereof."

"Blessed are they who starve while the asses and the mules are fed; for they shall be buried at public expense."

"Blessed are they who hunger in the land of drouth; for they shall be told that a great Government feeds the starving poor in foreign lands."

"Blessed are the idle rich who know their 'master's voice,' for they shall be able to save their taxes while the poor subscribe to the Red Cross."

"Blessed are the lame ducks on the Muscle Shoals conference committee; for they shall receive their reward at the hands of the power trust and an appreciative President."

"Blessed are the little children who shiver from cold; for their suffering shall receive sympathetic consideration."

"Blessed are the farmers who toil in the fields and the army of unemployed whose families are hungry; for they shall be fooled again at the next presidential election."

Former Put Out of Auto and Gets Ride Back to City; Latter Also Returns.

Mrs. Martha Whitworth, 24 years old, 209 South Sarah street, reported to police early today that she and her sister, Mrs. Edna Eaton, 19, 4221 Chouteau avenue, were forced into an automobile at Tower Grove and Chouteau avenues last night by two men, who drove out Clayton road.

Mrs. Whitworth reported that the men put her out of the car about four miles beyond the city limits, continuing on with Mrs. Eaton. Mrs. Whitworth was brought back to the city by a motorist. This morning it was reported that Mrs. Eaton had returned home.

Mrs. Whitworth said the men appeared to be Italians. They held their hands in the pockets of their overcoats, as if concealing revolvers, she said.

ALL-BRAN BROUGHT WELCOME RELIEF

THOUSANDS of letters attest to the efficiency of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in overcoming constipation. For instance, Mr. James D. McEnery, Alto, Texas, relates his experience:

"For fifteen years I was constantly bothered with constipation. . . . Some eighteen months ago, I began using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. From the first week to this good day, I have never had to take a dose of laxative medicine of any description."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the largest-selling all-bran cereal in the world. Two tablespoons daily are guaranteed to give relief. How much safer than using habit-forming laxatives.

ALL-BRAN also adds needed iron to build the blood. In the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A New Invention

That Banishes Chafing and Discomfort from Women's Hygiene

The Most Talked About Hygienic Aid for Women of the Day . . . Pure RAYON Cellulose Filled

Soft and Gentle as Fluffed Silk—and Effective 3 Times Longer

THERE is now a sanitary pad that cannot chafe or irritate. A new and remarkable invention that changes all previous ideas of sanitary protection.

It is new and totally different from any other pad now known or ever known. New in construction. New in material. New in results. Hence, one cannot compare it with any other hygienic protection so far known.

A U. S. Patented Invention—Not Merely "Another" Sanitary Pad

It is called Veldown. And rigidly protected under United States Patents, there is no other pad "like" it—or even remotely like it. It is made in an entirely different way from any you have ever used.

Its filler is superlative soft, pure RAYON cellulose. Thus is as gentle as fluffed silk.

Its patented construction—along with its RAYON cellulose filler—eliminates all chafing, all discomfort from wearing a sanitary pad.

5 Or More Times More Absorbent

Another factor is that this new creation is 5 or more times more absorbent than any other pad yet discovered. Hence, that it can be worn in complete safety and peace of mind HOURS LONGER than any other pad. Consider what this means.

Also, it is highly deodorant. And thus ends all danger of embarrassment. It discards, of course, as easily as tissue.

PRINCE OF WALES STUDYING OIL INDUSTRY IN PERU

He and Brother Motor Up Mountain of Hairpin Bends in Inspecting Country.

By the Associated Press.

S. S. OROPESA, Feb. 10.—The Prince of Wales is at work today on one of the main phases of his visit to South America, the collection of information on the industrial and commercial life of the continent. Yesterday he motored through the great oil fields of Northern Peru, largely controlled by English and Canadian interests. His trip for the best part of 100 miles was through an arid, sun-scorched country whose only wealth is oil.

The Prince and his brother, Prince George, landed at Cabo Blanco in the morning and were whisked by automobile a thousand feet in altitude in less than two miles along a road of hairpin bends.

At El Alto the Prince found a settlement with clubs and hospital in the midst of a country yielding 7000 barrels of oil daily. At Paita, Lobitos and Negritos, the royal travelers were greeted with a display of Peruvian and British flags. At Paita they again boarded the Oropesa for the trip down the coast to Callao.

From Callao the Princes will go to Lima.

LINDELL-UNION VIADUCT PAYING

The Board of Public Service today set March 17 for the receipt of bids on paving and sidewalks in connection with the Lindell-Union viaduct and the related Grand Drive viaduct in Forest Park over the Wabash tracks. The estimated cost of the work is $105,000. It is planned to open the thoroughfares to traffic by the middle of April.

Bids will be accepted on the same day for the construction of a Nurses' residence for City Hospital nurses. It will be built on the southwest corner of Grattan and Carroll streets at an estimated cost of $556,000.

KID' BECKER'S FAMILY FOR SLAYER'S PAROLE

Good Record in Prison and Other Recommendations Gave J. T. Dougherty Freedom.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 10.—

John T. Dougherty, who left the penitentiary today on a parole from a life term for participation in the murder of Henry (Kid) Becker, St. Louis gambler, in April, 1929, owes his freedom to a good record in prison and an exceptional list of recommendations from persons connected with the case, including relatives of the slain gambler.

Records of the State Penal Board include a waiver of objections to Dougherty's release signed by Mrs. Jean Becker, widow of the gambler, and letters from the late C. Becker, father of Henry, and from L. M. Becker, 2048 Russell boulevard, a brother, who joined in the request for the parole. The record also includes letters from Congressman L. C. Dyer, State Senator Joseph H. Brogan, the late Judge Benjamin J. Klene, and former Circuit Attorney Lawrence McDaniel.

Congressman Dyer's letter states that he knows Dougherty and the latter's family, and expresses the opinion that "no mistake will be made if a parole is granted in this case." Senator Brogan was active in getting Dougherty a hearing before the Penal Board in December, 1929, and again last December.

Judge Klene wrote that it was not his policy to ask for the parole of persons convicted in his court, but declared he had no objection to Dougherty's release. McDaniel, who was Circuit Attorney at the time Dougherty was tried, stated that the record of the case showed that Dougherty did not actually shoot Becker.

The Penal Board, in recommending favorable action, pointed out that the convict's prison record was excellent and that "the punishment appears to have been sufficient to accomplish the reformation of the offender, and to meet the purposes of justice."

Gov. Caulfield said today that, despite the recommendations set forth, he held up the parole until he looked up Dougherty's record in St. Louis. The Governor said he was informed by Chief of Detectives Kaiser that the convict had no criminal record prior to the Becker killing. Dougherty was convicted on his own confession, Gov. Caulfield said, and testified at the trial that he was running away at the time three companions robbed and then killed Becker, who pleaded for his life.

"I am satisfied this man is not a gangster. Taking all the circumstances into consideration, I granted the parole after careful investigation," Gov. Caulfield said.

Dougherty, who is 33 years old, worked in the prison clothing factory, and later on the penal farm. For the last three years he has been an assistant turnkey in "C" Hall.

The Supreme Court, affirming the sentence in March, 1931, said: "Human depravity reached its lowest level in the commission of this crime. It was ruthless, cold-blooded murder. Its cruel, sordid details are relieved by none of the palliating circumstances sometimes present, and often interposed in cases of homicide."

CRUDE OIL PRODUCTION INCREASED, JOURNAL SAYS

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., Feb. 10.—Daily average crude oil production in the United States increased 28,584 barrels last week, totaling 2,107,664 barrels, says the Oil and Gas Journal's report.

Oklahoma was the pace-setter in the upward movement with a gain of 24,510 barrels that placed the State's output at 468,320 barrels. The Oklahoma shift, together with an increase of 4765 barrels in Kansas, was responsible largely for boosting the mid-continent area's production 23,929 barrels to a total of 1,111,337 barrels. The Kansas figure was 108,985 barrels. Eastern production was up 1000 barrels at 109,000 barrels. Rocky Mountain production was 99,832 barrels, an increase of 4186 barrels.

California had a gain of 1250 barrels with an average of 526,750 barrels.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—There were vigorous advances in stocks, grains and cotton, and a good demand for bonds today.

Equity share values made extreme gains of 2 to 16 1-2 points in the more actively traded issues, and added more than $1,000,000,000 to their aggregate quoted value.

Although the advance in stocks started quite spontaneously on Saturday, it was accompanied today by improved business news, including a report of a large gain in United States Steel Corporation's unfilled orders doing January and firmer prices for non-ferrous metals, particularly copper and silver.

The stock market wavered for a time in the morning as the higher prices attracted profit taking, but surged forward again in the afternoon. The day's total transfers on the Stock Exchange came close to 4,500,000 shares, and were the largest since mid-December. Further profit taking in the final dealings caused recessions 1 to 3 points from the day's top prices.

Shares closed the day close to the best levels of the session. Trading on the Stock Exchange was most active on the advance. Virtually the only let-up in the vigorous trading was during a moment of hesitancy during the morning.

While the movement was still of a highly professional flavor, it was bolstered by the favorable industrial news.

Auburn Up 16 1/2 Points.

Auburn, with its small floating supply, was pushed up 16 1/2 points, and closed 4 up, net, making more than 22 points in two days. The tormenting of shorts was shifted to J. I. Case, which closed up 13 points. Shorts were also pinched in Westinghouse, which shot up 8 points, and closed up 5. U. S. Steel sold up 4 points, and was up 2, net at the finish.

Shares closing 3 to 5 higher included North American, Eastman, New York Central, Johns Manville, National Steel, Macy, International Cement, and Air Reduction. Liggett and Myers and American Tobacco B stocks each lost 1 point, however.

The foreign exchanges were marked by a sharp reaction in Sterling, possibly indicating a check to the recent flow of funds to London. Cables declined 5-12 to $4.86 1/2.

Unfilled Tonnage Up.

The gain of 188,755 tons in U. S. Steel's tonnage was in contrast to various unofficial estimates heard during the past week, ranging from a decline of 100,000 tons to a gain of 100,000 tons.

It was at least better than the more optimistic expectations, and the best January gain since 1928. It was pointed out, however, that the current low level of operations somewhat obscured its significance. Fluctuations in the price of silver have been largely due to a combination of unusual circumstances robbing it of much of its barometric value in judging commodity price trends. The sudden rebound was after it touched a shilling an ounce in London.

In the main, however, the violent upswing in stocks lacked positive developments in industrial or trade conditions to back it up, and it was still regarded as primarily a technical correction of an over-sold condition. Wall Street felt that it was in part a response to the passing of vague uneasiness over possible political unsettlement, both at home and abroad.

There was a marked slackening in the volume of trading after the first half hour, in which 800,000 shares changed hands. In the next hour and a half, the turnover was only 1,100,000 shares, and by mid-day, the volume of transfers was only a little ahead of the total at the same time yesterday.

The jump in Auburn on top of yesterday's 18 1/2 point gain was in part a response to the report of the company's increased sales and output, but the issue has long been a favorite of traders who like excitement. In 1929 it ranged from $120 to $514 a share. It has outstanding less than 100,000 shares, much of which is closely held and not available for trading purposes. Copper prices also stiffened. Reaching 9 1/2 cents a pound, up 1/4. The trade looked for the red metal to go still higher, as little was available at the new price.

HOOVER SEEKS $500,000 MORE FOR ALIEN DEPORTATION WORK

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—President Hoover yesterday added a vigorous alien deportation drive to the immigration restriction policy adopted to conserve employment for American labor. He sent a special message to the House asking for $500,000 to allow an increase of 245 in the number of patrolmen engaged in deportation work.

"This patrol personnel would be an integral and essential part of the service engaged in the nationwide campaign to accelerate deportation of aliens unlawfully in the United States," said Director Roop of the budget in a letter accompanying the message.

Labor Department statistics show an increase from 12,900 in the fiscal year 1929 to 16,600 in 1930. "We know that there are more deportable aliens in the country than there should be," Immigration Commissioner Hull has informed the House Appropriations Committee. "The only reason that I can assign is that we do not have money enough to do the work."

MACDONALD AGAIN DEFEATS CONSERVATIVE OPPOSITION

Agricultural Marketing Bill, Supported by Many Liberals, Gets Majority of 45 Votes.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The MacDonald-Labor Government last night obtained a majority of 45 votes in carrying the agricultural marketing bill on second reading, 258 to 213. The bulk of the Liberal party voted with the Laborites. It was the second time within a week that the Prime Minister had beaten his Conservative opposition with the aid of the Liberals.

Christopher Addison, Minister of Agriculture, in moving for the bill's second reading, quoted statistics to show the wasteful loss of British marketing compared with those employed in such countries as Denmark. He urged the necessity of unified control to meet foreign competition.

Conservative critics of the bill hailed it as a serious step in the "socialization" of the country.

WANTS STATE TO SUE BANK OF TENNESSEE

Head of Legislative Investigators Notes Trespass in Securities Substitution.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 10.—Chairman Walter Faulkner of the Legislative Investigating Committee said yesterday that about $2,500,000 in securities removed from the Bank of Tennessee and substituted by others were taken by trespass and the State should seek recovery of the originals.

H. G. Bratton and H. B. Clarke, State Bank Examiners, had testified that after an examination of the bank they required additional securities to be placed in the bank as a fund for its continued operation and made no agreement that other securities could be substituted for those pledged. Both said they would not have accepted the securities had they been substituted.

Faulkner expressed the opinion the State was entitled to enough of the securities to guarantee its $3,400,000 deposits in the bank and asked that correspondence be started immediately with companies whose stock was involved. It was brought out that the stock had been signed and transferred to the bank by Caldwell & Co.

The demanded collateral was transferred by a letter written Sept. 29 by E. J. Heitzberg, a vice president of Caldwell & Co., and set forth that it was to guarantee a repurchase agreement by which the company agreed to buy back on demand all securities sold the bank.

Bratton testified that after the bank failed a pouch containing the substituted securities was delivered and in the pouch was found a letter from J. D. Carter, another vice president, dated Oct. 29. This letter said the Heitzberg letter was dictated "in the presence of two bank examiners" and "the understanding was that Caldwell & Co. had the right to make substitutions under the general repurchase agreement."

Bratton and Clarke said they had had no "understanding" with any one, had not seen Carter at the time of the Sept. 25 examination and knew nothing about the letter.

HINDU WHO AIDED POLICE KILLED IN SACRAMENTO, CAL.

Victim Known as "General Secretary of Indian National Congress on Pacific Coast."

By the Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 10.—The slayer of Nagina Ram Dhami, 28-year-old Hindu identified by police as "General Secretary of the Indian National Congress of the Pacific Coast," was sought today. Dhami was shot and killed on a downtown street last night by a man who fled in an automobile said by the police to be registered to Naren Singh, Marysville, Cal.

Clarence Morrill, Chief of the State Bureau of Criminal Identification, said the slain man aided authorities in investigations of several recent cases in which Hindus were mysteriously slain or had disappeared. Morrill's records also brought to light evidence that trouble between followers of Mahatma Gandhi and the British Government in India may have had some connection with Hindu disturbances in California.

"In India trouble is settled by arbitration. In America one has to be killed," read a line of a letter quoted by Morrill. This letter, he said, was written by a California Hindu to an editor in India and intercepted in that country. Pamphlets quoting the letter were sent back to California.

$41,626 JANUARY RELIEF BY PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION

Expenditure Exceeds by $15,000 Amount Paid Out in Corresponding Month Last Year.

St. Louis Provident Association spent $41,626 for material relief during January, about $15,000 more than in the same month last year. During January 1930 families applied for assistance, as compared with 1730 a year ago.

The increased demand upon the association is due in part to the fact that it is one of six social agencies which are co-operating with the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment. The committee has referred to the Provident Association more than 500 families, and its expenditures in behalf of this group will be paid by the Citizens' Committee out of the $300,000 it received as an appropriation from municipal funds. With the facilities of its ten district offices and the central office at 2221 Locust street overtaxed because of the increase in the number of applications for help, a new field office has been opened at 2326 Olive street.

Doctors Say • Intestinal Fatigue • is Dangerous

DR. KARL GRUENFELD, of Vienna, noted authority, says: "SLUGGISHNESS of the intestines is especially prevalent among women."

HEALTH FADES as a result. Yeast brings blessed relief.

"Women are Especially Subject to THIS TROUBLE"

—declares the famous Vienna specialist, Dr. Gruenfeld

INTESTINAL Fatigue is not pleasant to talk about. But neither is it pleasant to endure!

Improper diet, late hours, insufficient exercise, combine to halt normal elimination and set poisons circulating throughout your body. Appetite fails. Pimples give out. Colds, headaches, skin troubles multiply.

Now you want to correct this trouble, of course. Then read what the famous Austrian authority, Dr. Karl Gruenfeld, advises:

"Constipation," he says, "is an infirmity that affects more than half the human race—women especially."

"This condition is readily overcome by eating fresh yeast. Yeast has a remarkable effect on the activity of the intestines. It checks putrefaction... It corrects constipation in a gentle, gradual, permanent way."

Surely that expert medical opinion is worth acting upon! Think what it means... no more constant "dosing," no more enslavement to violent cathartics and pills. Just a simple addition to your diet... a food, that you eat regularly three times every day!

Try eating Fleischmann's Yeast for several weeks. You can get it at grocers, restaurants and soda fountains. Directions on the label.

HOW TO ESCAPE FLU

1 Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; overheated, stuffy rooms.

2 Be careful of close contact with others, and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose, get fresh air, but avoid drafts or chilling.

3 Get lots of rest. Eat plenty of citrus fruits. Keep the bowels open. Take extra precautions to keep in sound physical condition, so your system will have high resistance against germs.

4 Above all, avoid catching colds. They lower your resistance to the flu germ. Ward them off. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin and remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin dissolved in water at the first indication of sore throat, as this will relieve the soreness and reduce the inflammation.

5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

ORDERS CLOSING OF GAMBLING DENS ON THE EAST SIDE

Sheriff Also Directs Deputies to Suppress Gangster Hangouts and Vice Resorts in St. Clair County.

Sheriff Jerome Munie, of St. Clair County, announced today he has ordered the closing of the East St. Louis segregated vice district known as "The Valley," which occupies an area of several blocks beginning a block north of the police station, with the stipulation that the women of the district must "get out of St. Clair County."

Munie said he had instructed his deputies also to close gambling places and gangster hangouts throughout the county, similar to the establishment of "Wide Open Smith" at 330A East Broadway, in the East St. Louis business district where three men were murdered in a gang fight the morning of Feb. 1.

Instructions to close the vice district, "within a reasonable time" were given by Sheriff Munie to his chief deputy, Michael Doyle, of East St. Louis, yesterday, without consultation with the East St. Louis police.

"The order means the women of the 'valley' must get out," Munie said. "They will have to move out of the district and they will not be allowed to locate any place in the county."

While perhaps 50 women of the district moved away following the order of Dec. 5, more than 100 remained. They dodged some of the provisions of the order by pulling down their window shades, but cutting holes in them, or hanging the shades so they covered only part of the windows.

Chief Deputy Doyle said he planned to notify the women tomorrow of the removal order. Neither he nor Sheriff Munie fixed a limit for a "reasonable time" to get out, explaining that some of the women are property owners and might require more time to vacate than others.

Deputies have been directed to check frequently on all types of establishments directed to close. Sheriff Munie said, precluding any tendency to reopen.

Police Not Consulted. State's Attorney H. C. Lindauer, of St. Clair County, announced last Thursday following a conference with Sheriff Munie, that any place known to be a gangster hangout would be closed. He did not refer specifically to the segregated vice district in East St. Louis but expressed confidence the East St. Louis police would co-operate in the closing of establishments similar to the gambling flat and speakeasy where Joseph P. Carroll, a former partner of Bernie Shelton, notorious East Side gangster, in the taxi business; David Hoffman, a pawnbroker; and Theodore Kaminski, a former motorbus driver, were shot to death. Their bodies were found the next day in a ditch by a lonely Madison County road.

Sheriff Munie said today his order to close the vice district was issued independently of the East St. Louis police. No action towards eliminating the district, which has run openly for years contrary to State law, ever has been taken by the city authorities.

ONE-MAN CAR OPERATOR HELD FOR FATAL ACCIDENT

Coroner's Jury Charges Him With Criminal Carelessness in Death of Truck Worker.

William Henderson, operator of a one-man street car on the Broadway line, was charged with criminal carelessness by a coroner's jury at an inquest today into the death of Charles Cowles, 4775 Easton avenue, one of three track laborers for the Public Service Co. injured Wednesday when struck by a street car.

Cowles died from internal injuries Friday. With James Fitzgerald, 506 Northland avenue, and William Woodling, 3683 Rutger street, he had been repairing a section of track on Broadway about 100 feet south of Gasconade street. Fitzgerald suffered a lacerated scalp and Woodling a broken arm. Henderson, who lives at 119 West Lewis place, St. Louis County, did not testify and there were no eyewitnesses at the inquest. Policemen and Jere Fruin, foreman of the track crew, testified Henderson had told them that he was ill before the accident. Henderson's $5000 bond was continued.

Three Hurt in Auto Collision. Mrs. Margaret Kuhn, 8133 Church road, and Miss Catherine O'Leary of Moberly, Mo., were cut and bruised last night when an automobile in which they were riding collided with another machine at Newstead and St. Louis avenues. James Henderson, an accountant, 2232 Big Bend boulevard, driver of the other car, also suffered minor injuries.

RETURN TO PRISON FOR FOOD DISTILLERY INVESTMENT TRUST

Many Paroled Convicts in Kansas Want to Continue Sentence. LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Feb. 10. — Many paroled prisoners are returning to their erstwhile place of confinement to escape hunger and cold, after months of unemployment. M. F. Amrine, warden of the Kansas State penitentiary, announced.

He cited the cases of numerous men who had appeared before him pleading for the opportunity to waive their present liberty and continue serving their sentences terminated by the Parole Board.

FOR LIMIT ON 'ADS' ON RADIO

Commissioner LaFont Assers Restriction in Necessary. WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. — A limitation on the kind and amount of advertising broadcast by radio stations was held yesterday by Radio Commissioner LaFont to be necessary. In a formal statement, he said broadcasting stations are licensed to serve the public "and not for the furthering of private or selfish interests of individuals."

"Since advertising furnishes the economic support for the service station renders and makes it possible," he added, "it is not necessarily an exception to the rule."

TOBACCO CAPITAL VOTES OLD GOLD BEST

RIPLEY "BELIEVE IT or NOT" PROVES IT

RICHMOND AWARDS O. G. BIG VICTORY OVER RIVAL BRANDS IN RIPLEY'S FIRST TASTE-TEST DOWN SOUTH

By ROBERT RIPLEY, Himself

I went down to Richmond, Virginia, the other day. Richmond, one of the nation's capitals in tobacco products, where they know tobacco like Detroit knows motor cars. I gave 994 Richmond smokers one each of the four leading cigarettes ... with the names hidden by a black mask. "Don't try to guess 'em, Richmond!" I said. "Just smoke 'em ... and pick out the cigarette that tastes best."

It was the same old story. Again, O. G. rolled up a decisive majority vote. Chosen by the world's foremost tobacco town for its superior throat-ease and smoothness. If that isn't a Supreme Court decision ... what is?

The System Gets Real Help from this Doctor's Prescription

TRAIN your bowels to be regular; to move at the same time every day; to be so thorough that they get rid of all the waste. Syrup Pepsin—a doctor's prescription—will help you do this. When you take this compound of laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other valuable ingredients, you are helping the bowels to help themselves.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the sensible thing to take whenever you are headachy, bilious, half-sick from constipation. When you have no appetite, and a bad taste or unpleasant breath shows you're full of poison. Dr. Caldwell studied bowel troubles for 47 years. His prescription always works, quickly, thoroughly; can never do you any harm. It cleanses the system and sweetens the whole digestive tract. It gives those over-worked bowels the help they need.

Take some Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today, and see how fine you feel tomorrow—and for days to come. Give it to the kiddies when they're sickly or feverish; they'll like the taste! Your druggist has big bottles of it, all ready for use.

COMMISSIONER PUTS O. K. ON PESEK-BAFFERT MATCH AT ARENA

By Damon Kerby.

Plans are going forward today for a wrestling card scheduled to be held at The Arena, Friday night, under the promotion of Ben Reuben of Chicago, and Louis "Curly" Fishman of St. Louis. The feature match of the card, as approved by Commissioner Benesa C. Taylor, yesterday afternoon, will bring together John Pesek of Ravenna, Neb., and Al Baffert, reported to be from Canada.

The remainder of the card, as approved and announced by Commissioner Taylor, follows:

Jack Sherry, Utah, vs. George Mack, Chicago. (To a finish.)
Dr. Stanley Lark, Poland, vs. Vic Soldat, Chicago. Forty-five minute time limit.
Charley Peterson, Chicago, vs. George Kopp, Chicago. Thirty-minute time limit.

All performers on the card, with the exception of Pesek, are unknown in St. Louis. Baffert, Pesek's opponent, was thrown twice within 37 minutes in a two-out-of-three-fall match at Toronto last Thursday night.

Matchmaker Reuben said he was not acquainted with the records of the wrestlers he has obtained. He expects to receive information today concerning their past performance.

The plan of the promoters was to have a large number of 25 cent seats. Commissioner Taylor vetoed this plan, ruling that the promoters must charge prices equal to those of the regular admission.

Commissioner Taylor also limited the number of "slips" which the promoters expect to circulate, to 1000. These "slips," together with 50 or 75 cents, entitle the holders to seats ordinarily sold at double the price or more. Promoter Tom Packs has distributed more than 4000 such "slips" at some of his cards, but the Commissioner said that henceforth all wrestling shows, regardless of what promoter is handling the show, will be limited to 1000 "slips."

NO RADICAL CHANGES EXPECTED IN FOOTBALL RULES, ZUPPKE SAYS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 10.—The shift will not be an issue, and there will be no radical alteration of football rules, was the belief of Coach Bob Zuppke of the University of Illinois, who headed for Champaign, N. J., today to attend the annual meeting of the Rules Committee.

"Coaches feel generally that the present rule satisfactorily governs the shift," Zuppke, who is a member of the Advisory Committee, said, "and most of them think the rules should be left alone."

"I believe the General Committee shares this feeling. It is likely that whatever changes are made will be in the nature of clarifying present rules."

WISCONSIN'S NEW TEAM RUNS OVER BEARS, 39 TO 9

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 10.—Held without a score for the first 14 minutes of the game, while Wisconsin was rolling up 15 points, Washington University was swamped by a sharpshoot: Wisconsin basketball team here last night, 39 to 9.

After going scoreless for 14 minutes, Buddy Wise scored a field goal for Washington, the only points scored against Wisconsin's tight defense during the first half. After Wise's field goal, it was 14 to 0 minutes before Washington was able to add any points. Wise again breaking the ice with a long goal.

Wisconsin had 27 points by the time Wise made his second goal to tie Washington four points. The Badgers used substitutes freely, starting a lineup containing only two players who were regulars during the first semester.

The game was the first for Wisconsin since the loss of the two co-captains, Ed Chmielewski and Johnny Paul. In addition to these two, Wisconsin was without the services of Russ Tornowski, the best scorer on the team, because of an injury suffered in practice.

Russ Rebholz, starting his first game for Wisconsin, dropped in five field goals from his position at guard, but Doug Nelson, who performed at forward, center and guard during the game, topped him in total points with four goals and a trio of free throws.

Washington was unable to penetrate Wisconsin's defense for short shots and relied on long tries most of them hurried and inaccurate.

Wisconsin had 63 shots from the floor and made 17 field goals, while Washington made four goals in 43 attempts. As in the Drake game, Washington made only one free throw.

KARDENSKI WINS BY KNOCKOUT IN HIS FIRST START

Bill Kardenski, Belleville heavy-weight, making his first start in an amateur bout scored a one-round knockout over Ed Sanders at the A. C. Club show held at the Knights of Columbus Building last night. Sanders substituted for Lloyd Cartwright, Jefferson Bar-acks who failed to put in an appearance.

The best bout on the card was the featherweight scrap between Morgan Lingenfelter, National A. C., and Danny Durso, Croatian A. C., which Durso won after an extra session had been ordered. It was Lingenfelter's second setback in a row, after having won three fights in eight days.

Carl Taylor, Jefferson Baracks, failed to show up for his bout with George Biehl, Sherman Park Community Center, and Bill won a decision over Joe Huff, Taylor's substitute.

The results.

Pete Little, Wesley House, defeated Dick Hawk, Sherrin House, three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, 117.
George Biehl, Sherman Park C. C., defeated Joe Huff, K. K. C., three rounds, judges' decision. Weight, 147.

U.S. PROHIBITS LUMBER FROM 4 RUSSIAN AREAS FATALITY WOUNDS SELF

Shippers Must Prove Wood Was Not Produced by Convict Labor.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Lumber and pulpwood from four localities of Russia today were barred from the United States by the Treasury unless the shippers can prove they are not produced by convict labor.

The action was taken under the tariff law, which prohibits importation of convict-made goods, and under authority of Treasury regulations issued three months ago placing the burden of proof that convict labor does not enter into manufacture of imports upon the shipper.

The order is the first taken under the new regulations. It applies to the Kola Peninsula, including the Murmansk coast, Karelian, the northern area of Russia and the autonomous area of Zyryan.

F. X. A. Eble, Commissioner of Customs, acting with the approval of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon after obtaining new affidavits relating to the use of convict labor in the Russian forests. The Treasury declined to divulge the nature of the affidavits, expecting that the shippers will test the case in court.

ALBERT VON HOFFMANN ESTATE BEQUEATHED TO FAMILY

Widow and Two Sons to Share in Residual Holdings, Left in Trust.

The will of Albert von Hoffmann, St. Louis publisher, aeronaut and inventor, was filed for probate today, leaving one-third of the residual estate in trust for his widow, Mrs. Anna von Hoffmann, and the remaining two-thirds to be divided between his sons, Bernard and George.

His chief specific bequest was 4000 preferred shares in the Von Hoffmann Realty & Investment Co., to be held in trust, half to go to his daughter, Mrs. Ruth Koenig, and the other half to his grandson, Albert von Hoffmann, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elsa Walther. Mrs. Walther is the widow of the late Albert von Hoffmann, who died in 1914.

The will placed in trust insurance policies of $3000 each for Leopold Hoffmann and Theresa Koch, $2000 for Mrs. Anna von Hoffmann, and $1500 for Albert von Hoffmann. Mrs. Anna von Hoffmann and Bernard von Hoffmann are named executors for the period of administration, after which Bernard is to be trustee.

In disposing of the residual estate, the will made specific provision that stock dividends should be applied to principal and not be considered as income. It explicitly gave the executor liberty to develop any enterprise Mr. von Hoffmann was engaged in at the time of his death, without responsibility for losses incurred in good faith.

Mr. von Hoffmann died of heart disease last Thursday at his home, 3811 Florida place. He was 68 years old.

GETS UNCONTESTED DIVORCE FROM CYRUS MCCORMICK JR.

Wife Charges Cruelty by Vice President of International Harvester Co.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Detailing three acts of alleged cruelty, Mrs. Dorothy Linn McCormick yesterday obtained a divorce from Cyrus McCormick Jr., vice president of the International Harvester Co., and a grandson of Cyrus McCormick, one of the company's founders.

The decree was granted by Judge John H. Sullivan in Superior Court, when Mrs. McCormick disclosed a property settlement had been made out of court. The amount, however, was not announced. She also received permission to resume her maiden name. She is a daughter of W. R. Linn, a retired grain operator. McCormick did not contest the suit.

C. T. YERKES' SON BEATEN

Found Unconscious; Says He Had Been Kidnaped.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Charles E. Yerkes, 23 years old, who is the son of the late Charles T. Yerkes, traction magnate, was found beaten and unconscious in front of the hotel where he resides in Evanston early today.

He had been beaten severely about the head and numerous lacerations had caused considerable loss of blood. The police found him said. Yerkes told the police he had been kidnapped by unidentified assailants as he left a theater. He also had been robbed, he said. The police said indications were the youth also had been kidnapped.

The Yerkes Observatory at Lake Geneva, Wis., was a gift from the young man's grandfather to the University of Chicago.

Receiver Would Sell Chicago Post. CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—George F. Gets appointed receiver yesterday for the Chicago Evening Post, announced last night he would sell Judge Denis E. Sullivan to authorize sale of the newspaper. He expressed the conviction that "the property is of such value to the owner and the community that its present status as in the custody of a receiver for the Court will not long continue." Until a sale can take place, Gets said, the Post will continue publication.

Husband, 68, Takes Taxi From Mt. Vernon to Aurora, Mo., to Confront Woman.

By the Post-Dispatch.

AURORA, Mo., Feb. 10.—Robert Boyd, 68 years old, of Mount Vernon, yesterday took a taxi to Aurora and shot to death his wife, Mrs. Martha Boyd, 67, and himself.

The two were long-time residents of Mount Vernon, where they owned their home. A few weeks ago they separated and Mrs. Boyd went to Aurora to live with a sister, Mrs. Arwood. Boyd drove over and sent the driver in to call his wife out. They talked for a few moments but nothing they said was overheard. Mrs. Boyd started back into the house again and Boyd shot her, the bullet passing through her head. She slumped in a few minutes. Her sister, in a panic, locked the door to keep Boyd out, and the taxi driver started after the marshal.

Boyd sat down on the porch of the arched house for about five minutes and then shot himself through the head also. He lived for 16 or 20 minutes but did not talk.

BANKRUPTCY SCHEDULES FILED FOR BENTLEY CHAIN STORES

Debts of Corporation Are Listed at $961,048. While Assets Are Shown as $1,685,423.

Bankruptcy schedules filed in Federal court today for the Bentley Chain Stores, Inc., show debts of $961,048, and assets of $1,685,423.

Counsel for the company, against which creditors filed a petition in bankruptcy last week, obtained an order today from Federal Judge Faris to call creditors before Referee in Bankruptcy Coles on 10 days' notice for the purpose of offering a settlement.

The debts include $201,938 in secured claims for merchandise and $757,621 listed as notes and bill of the company, "which ought to be paid by other parties thereto."

Assets are listed as $1,210,547 due on customer installment payments; $220,520, furniture and fixtures in 18 stores; $20,673 deposits; $116,698 stock in trade; $33,305 real estate; and cash, $6814.

The majority of the unsecured claims are of comparatively small denomination.

THOMPSON SUES FOR $100,000

Chicago Mayor Bases Suit on Judge's Campaign Speech.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Attorney Edward O. Higgins, attorney for Mayor William Hale Thompson, announced in a statement that he had filed suit for $100,000 damages against Judge John H. Lyle, based on statements in Lyle's majority campaign speech last night.

Higgins said Lyle, who is one of the Mayor's opponents for the Republican nomination in the primary Feb. 24, charged Thompson with misdeeds and misappropriation of public funds and had challenged Thompson to sue him. He said the Mayor "accepted the challenge for the purpose of giving Lyle an opportunity to state the truth of the charges, which he knows well he cannot do." The statement said Thompson "will not let pass as mere political trickery and camouflage, any charge against his honesty and integrity."

UNFILLED U. S. STEEL
ORDERS UP 188,755 TONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation increased 188,755 tons in January to a total of 4,132,381 tons. The back log as of Dec. 31 was 3,943,626 tons. On Oct. 31 the total unfilled orders aggregated 3,639,636 tons. Jan. 21, 1920, unfilled orders amounted to 4,468,710 tons.

While unofficial estimates in the steel trade had been vague, the gain of 188,755 tons was considerably larger than had been expected by a gain of about 100,000 tons. A short time ago, many observers thought a small decline might be expected.

The increase in part reflects, of course, the low rate of activity during January, when the generally ran at less than half of capacity, despite the extensive resumption of activity after the year and shut-down.

Although the steel industry has accelerated activity but slightly in the past fortnight, the volume of business booked by the leading producer was regarded in steel circles as lending substance to reports that a further increase in steel prices was planned. There has been some uncertainty over the price structure, as several observers had felt that the prices announced for the current quarter had been largely untended.

While there has been a tendency for the steel industry's tonnage to increase in January during recent years, this upturn was considerably larger than the recent average. The gain of 188,755 tons compares with a gain of only 51,000 tons a year ago and 133,000 tons two years ago, but is substantially less than the jump of 303,000 tons three years ago.

Dividend Is Omitted.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The Gulf Mobile & Northern Railroad directors today omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.50 due on the preferred stock.

The statement issued after the meeting said that in view of the "substantial decrease in the company's earnings the board has decided to make no dividend distribution on the preferred stock at this time."

LOVED PASTRIES BUT SUFFERED IF HE ATE THEM

"I like pies better than most any food, but I used to suffer when I ate pastry," says M. J. Cziok, well-known police officer, of 4037 Twenty-third Ave., S. Minneapolis, Minn. "I would have sick headaches; feel stuffy, a sour taste in my mouth; suffered a lot with gas; had no appetite."

"I had indigestion like that for over two years. Soda didn't help, and I tried many things before I heard about Pape's Diapepsin."

"It took me right out of my trouble. I have a mighty hearty appetite, eat pastry or anything I want and have no after-effects. I am never without Pape's Diapepsin and recommend it to everyone I know."

If you suffer from indigestion, often or just occasionally, get a package of these candy-like tablets from your druggist. They relieve heartburn, gas, nausea, headaches or any other minor symptoms of indigestion almost as soon as the trouble starts. They are harmless; form no habit; can be taken as often as needed.

AUTO CLUB PATROL BILL HELD UP IN COMMITTEE

Action Deferred to Tomorrow to Let Elmer Discuss His Substitute.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 10.—Action on the State Highway patrol bill of the Automobile Club of Missouri, by the House Committee on Roads and Highways, again was deferred last night by the chairman, Representative Gray Snyder of Lewis County, in the absence of Representative W. P. Elmer of Dent County, who has proposed a substitute.

Proponents of the patrol bill in the committee said they had enough committee members favoring the bill at the meeting last night to defeat the Elmer substitute and report out the original bill favorably. Slightly more than a majority of the 48 committee members attended the hearing. At the close of an executive session, Snyder, who has not been friendly to the patrol bill, said action would be deferred until late tomorrow to enable Elmer to be present to discuss his substitute. The Elmer substitute would scrap the proposal in the bill for a centralized State force of 156 patrolmen and officers, under supervision of the Governor, and a substitute measure providing for a patrolman in each county, to be appointed by the Sheriff of the county, and one in St. Louis to be appointed by the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners. The original bill requires that not more than one-half of the force shall be affiliated with one political party. The Elmer substitute, regarded as a move to kill the patrol legislation, places no limitation upon the political division of the force, other than such as might result from the appointments by the Sheriffs.

Some opposition to the Automobile Club bill has developed among legislators who believe the proposed patrol might be utilized as a "snooping" force on the State highways for the enforcement of prohibition laws. Sponsors of the bill have offered amendments which would limit the general law enforcement powers of the patrolmen and center their activities on enforcement of traffic and highway laws.

NON-UNION PRINTING PLANT IS BOMBED IN CHICAGO

400 Employees Thrown Into Panic; Police Unable to Find Motive.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—A dynamite bomb, exploding with terrific force, ripped a large hole in the foundation of the eight-story printing plant of E. R. Donnelly & Sons last night, throwing 400 employees into a panic.

Leo Poppel, superintendent, estimated the damage at $5000. Windows from the first to the seventh floor, and in rooming houses on the opposite side of the street, were shattered. One employee was injured by broken glass. Police said they were unable to uncover a definite motive. The plant, known as the Lakeside Press, is operated on a nonunion basis. It is one of the largest of its kind in the United States.

The bombing was the fourth directed against large buildings in recent weeks. The others were the Merchandise Mart, the Furniture Mart and the warehouse of Sears-Roebuck Co.

MISUSE OF $950,000 CHARGED

Forty-eight Counts Filed Against Los Angeles Realty Dealers.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 10.—Harold G. Ferguson, president, and Clayton Luckey, vice president of the Harold G. Ferguson Corporation, a real estate firm, are charged in 48 felony counts in a complaint issued by the District Attorney.

Ferguson and Luckey are charged with the alleged misuse of $950,000 of investors' money. Thirty-six counts charge violation of the corporate securities act, asserting the two sold trust certificates without a permit from the State Corporation Commission. The other 12 counts violation of corporation laws in the sale of certificates contrary to trust agreements.

Millionaire Lost in Mid-Ocean.

By the Associated Press.

WINDSOR, Ontario, Feb. 10.—James Cooper, 57 years old, millionaire resident of Walkerville, Ontario, was lost in mid-ocean Sunday from the steamer Deutschland, on which he was en route to Europe, according to word received here late yesterday from Mrs. Cooper, who cabled from Switzerland. A native of Ontario, Cooper was in the saloon business in Detroit when prohibition came into effect. Then he transferred the liquor business. He had lived his activities to the border cities in Vevey, Switzerland, for the last and amassed a fortune estimated two years.

These Suites consist of four pieces as illustrated—bed, dresser, chest of drawers and vanity—in a charming Colonial design. The illustration gives a fair idea of the attractiveness of these Suites, but you will have to see them to appreciate the splendid construction—the rich finish—the beautiful graining of each piece. They come in three finishes—walnut, mahogany and maple. Twin beds may be had instead of the large double bed at proportionately low prices. A Suite like this will fit into any home, because it is a distinctive unit in itself and it is unquestionably stylish.

There Never Was a Lower Price!

Only a spectacular purchase at a great concession, and our determination to cut profits in order to give St. Louisans a once-in-a-lifetime bargain, brings this temptingly low price. These Suites were made to sell for $100—bargains even at this price—and if you will be interested in the purchase of a Bedroom Suite during this year, it will pay you to come in Wednesday to avail yourself of this unusual opportunity. Selling is bound to be fast at this record-breaking price, so come early if you want one.

A PIECE —OF— HER MIND

By ELSIE McCORMICK

NEW YORK, Feb. 9. I SAW "Five Star Final" the other night, and the memory of it still clings like a clover burr. It happened that I never worked in Mr. Weitzel's play. Neither was I ever commissioned to look up a lady's 20-year-old past and spread its details over the face of her hairless present.

Yet even the consequences of legitimate new stories are harrowing sometimes and are best forgotten by those who play typewriters in the local rooms.

One must forget them because, after all, the duty of a reputable newspaper is to give a true picture of the events of the preceding 24 hours. Its purpose is not to consider the consequences. The paper's function is that of a mirror, reflecting good and evil alike. It tried to consider and direct the results, the image of the day would be so distorted as to be quite without value.

While the effects of some stories might be unfortunate, there is the consoling thought that fear of unfavorable publicity acts as a restraining hand on many less scrupulous citizens. Also, the privilege of showing up certain people is a joy and boon to the reporter and does much to lighten his task.

I recall one case of six prosperous and well-fed offspring who refused to support their 80-year-old mother, each one claiming that the responsibility was up to the rest. The desperate old lady finally appealed to the law. We reporters on the court beat took much pleasure in giving the names, addresses and business connections of all the fat slackers involved.

SOMETIMES in the newspaper business embarrassing errors are produced, with the help of the composing room. Once, while baiting temporarily for a Western society editor, I wrote of a party given at a certain lady's lovely home. It came out that the affair took place at Mrs. X's lonely home. As she had been divorced only a few weeks before, the remark was a little too appropriate.

Something like that always happened when I served in the society department. They used to put me in sometimes when the society editor was ill, but later on they noticed that doing so always made her worse.

However, during my apprenticeship I learned something about people's reactions to publicity. I was sent about a good deal with a camera man, usually to get pictures of ladies on their commitments. The ladies always expressed themselves as being very reluctant to pose, and I used to waste many half hours persuading them to overcome their scruples.

Later I learned a time-saving method. If the subject object refused, I rose and expressed much regret, stating that we'd go to see another member of the committee. Invariably the lady ran a hurried comb through her hair and remarked that "just this once" she would overcome her aversion to appearing in print.

I'm looking back over my so-called career. I find it difficult to pick out the most interesting moments. Perhaps the interview that impressed me most was a talk with ex-Chancellor Michaelis of Germany. As it was only a year or two after the war, I still thought that "Hun" and "German" were synonymous.

The man who was War Chancellor and later President of Germany turned out to be a meek-looking little man with shabby clothes and the general air of a not very prosperous delicatessen merchant. He had come to Japan as a delegate to the World Sanitary School Convention, Promoting Sunday schools, he said, was one of his principal diversions. It didn't seem to allow him much time for cutting off the hands of Belgian children.

I had at least expected an ex-Chancellor to have steely-blue eyes, bristling mustaches, and the martial tread of a Blomack. When I saw the humble and gentle Herr Michaelis the war was over as far as I was concerned.

ANOTHER high light was an afternoon that I spent in Hollywood shopping with Mary Pickford. The store that she chose for her shopping was no rubber-heeled establishment with a lady's real estate turned out to be a place where babies cried in the aisles and an escalator ripped down to a bargain basement. The number of other million-dollar stars who would buy hats and dresses in such a nonexclusive house could be counted on the fingers of the armless wonder.

Mary has the name in Hollywood of being more than a little thrifty. No doubt she is—she said herself that, owing to the hardships of her childhood, she can hardly believe yet that she is actually rich.

The Modes of Gertrude Lawrence

By HELEN WORDEN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. CLOTHES that make the women, and even the men, sit up and take notice—that's what Gertrude Lawrence wears in Noel Coward's new play, "Private Lives."

And they are straight from Paris, too; trunks full of them. Molyneux designed them all for Miss Lawrence. Gowns, wraps, suits, hats, jewelry and even "undies" were created especially for the English actress by the famous couturier.

Though he heads one of the most important dressmaking establishments in Paris, Capt. Molyneux is English. Perhaps that is why he understands Miss Lawrence's type so well. Everything that Molyneux has made for the slim, young actress has a sense of humor, you know, and I felt that she might go in for mourning, when she married the second time. Miss Lawrence couldn't see it that way. He said black and white was still the thing for me in that role.

Next to black and white, Molyneux likes brown on Miss Lawrence. Brown is her favorite color. It appears in the alluring brown and gold satin lounging pajamas that she wears in the second act. Tiny gold flowers pattern the brown silk background. They are comfortable as well as ornamental pajamas. The little blouse is sleeveless and tucked inside a pair of slick-looking trousers that fit trimly about the hips and flare into wide frills at the hem. In fact, they are so full that the trousers look more like a skirt. A hip-length, unlined coat is worn over the blouse. For a touch of color, Miss Lawrence carries a huge orange chiffon hanky and gay little orange brocade vanity bag. Her mules are brown satin, striped with gold kid.

"I wore so much brown at Palm Beach," she remarked as she moved her make-up. "I think the combination of brown and white is about the smartest thing going for beach wear," she continued. "I simply had oodles of washable

"I don't think white ever really goes out of style, do you?" asked Miss Lawrence. "I wear it year in and year out. I like the brilliancy of it, and see what Molyneux does to accentuate it. He makes me year these with the white satin evening gown," she added, holding up fine scintillating crystal bracelets. The bracelets are inch-wide bands of emerald cut crystals mounted in such a clever manner that the metal prongs do not show. Miss Lawrence slips the five on one arm. At a short distance away they look like a solid cuff of glittering white stones.

"I like the idea of white jewelry with the white gown," remarked Miss Lawrence. "And to keep it an all-white ensemble I even wear two or three white roses, tucked in the bodice."

THE little hip-length wrap that is designed for the evening dress is fashioned of black velvet, lined with white satin. A great, big, billowing collar of white fox adds to the luxury of it. "I wore black and white in London, too," continued the English star. "The play ran three months there, you know, this fall. I think every woman in town was wearing black and white for evening, before the show had been on three weeks," she smiled.

"When I went to Paris to get my new clothes for the New York run, I suggested all black for the evening gown. Amanda, the girl white sleeveless frocks, little tailored things, that I wore all the time. I usually knotted a brown silk handkerchief about my neck, wore a brown hat, and brown and white sports shoes and brown pull-on suede gloves—and there was my ensemble!"

Miss Lawrence went directly to Palm Beach, when she landed in New York two weeks ago, to be the house guest of Capt. and Mrs. R. Amcott Willson.

"AND I spent most of the time on the beach, resting up. When I wasn't dancing," she said. A good healthy coat of tan has literally made her a "golden girl." For her sleek, slightly waved hair is brown with glints of gold in it, and so are her eyes.

Such guidance is necessary for all children who must live their lives under handicaps. Parents as well as teachers need to face intelligently the limitations which physical disabilities impose upon the work which children with handicaps can learn to do.

They must help them to make their adjustment as early as possible. Years of fruitless effort, disappointment and discouragement could be saved if those in charge of such children would help them to meet their problems on a realistic basis.

Teachers should direct children's ambitions into channels which follow the stream of natural inclination yet take a course in which lasting success is possible.

Talks to PARENTS

By Alice Judson Beale

Sight Saving

LEWIS GARRIS of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness recently spoke of the need for special vocational guidance among children of defective vision.

He told of the work done in the sight saving classes organized throughout the United States in which about 4000 children are enrolled.

In describing the classes he said: "The children are guided to select occupations in which their defective vision will not likely be increased."

"A surgeon's son, in one class had his heart set on following in his father's footsteps. Because of his poor vision this, of course, was impossible. His teacher, however, was able to interest the boy in forestry—and he now is leading a happy and healthful life engaged in tree surgery."

"In another case a girl of artistic bent wanted to become a painter. Since her sight made this impossible she was persuaded to study horticulture. She now is doing landscape gardening with a large staff of helpers and she is prosperous as well as happy at her work."

Such guidance is necessary for all children who must live their lives under handicaps. Parents as well as teachers need to face intelligently the limitations which physical disabilities impose upon the work which children with handicaps can learn to do.

They must help them to make their adjustment as early as possible. Years of fruitless effort, disappointment and discouragement could be saved if those in charge of such children would help them to meet their problems on a realistic basis.

How to Remove Lint

WHEN lint gathers on your coat or woolen dress isn't it an exasperating task to get it out? Of course you use a brush for this, but doesn't it seem as though the more you brush the more firmly the fine particles of lint become imbedded? That is just what does happen. The friction of the brush causes the fine lint to cling more firmly. Next time just hold the brush over the linting tea kettle until it is slightly moistened, then brush and you will be surprised how easily the lint will brush off.

"I'm wearing my hair a bit longer this year," she said, turning around for me to see the "ny locks" curled a little at the nape of her neck. The sides are short and waved in a sort of swirl that lies flat against the cheek.

"And guess what else I've done? I'm wearing hats without brims. I never thought I could do it. I've always wanted to hide under brims. But these things I'm wearing now are just postage stamps—and I wear them on the back of my head."

I held one of the hats in my hand. It was nothing more or less than a tiny skull cap made of chenille with a coronet band of the same soft fabric wound round the edge of it.

This same type of hat tops off the beige and red ensemble in which Miss Lawrence appears in the third act. And it is worn far back on her head, showing all of her forehead and some of her hair. The hat is beige chenille and the suit is red and white printed crepe. The pattern is a tiny all-over design of old-fashioned English pinks, done in beige on the red ground. It is made in a one-piece long-sleeved frock and worn with a hip-length unlined coat that is trimmed in beige dyed fox.

To Write Own Movie

CARMAN BARNES.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 7.

THE leading role in a movie she will write herself—that's the job that lies ahead for Carman Barnes, 18-year-old Tennessee blonde.

Unexpected? Yes, for Carman was brought to Hollywood to write a scenario of her first book—but instead she'll write this other story and star in it when it's filmed.

Out of high school only a short time, she already has written two novels and a play. Even now she says she will not sacrifice her writing for possible movie stardom. She hopes to be able to handle both jobs because she has "a lot of foaks."

She was busy in the scenario department soon after her arrival in Hollywood when she was asked if she minded taking a film test. That brought a new contract, much more lucrative than the former one. No one was more surprised than Miss Barnes herself.

"I have been successful, luckily perhaps, and I feel I can be again," she says.

Writing, it seems, came to Carman naturally. Her mother, who writes poetry under the name of Diantha Mills, told her precocious and somewhat delicate daughter when she was quite young to express herself however she pleased.

At 14 she began "Schoolgirl," finishing it a year later. When it was published its content aroused the indignation of authorities of the Nashville high school she was attending and Carman was requested to leave.

She finished high school in New York. About the same time her second novel, "Baku Lover," written in six months, appeared. Then she wrote a play from "School-girl."

WHY is Tip-Top Sandwich Bread Sliced the fastest growing loaf?

It is, of course, of super-quality.

Then it's very handy to use—already sliced, no trimming necessary, either for the bread-platter or for sandwiches.

Then there is no waste—no big ends to throw away. Its slide-back wrapper keeps it fresh in the bread box.

Always fresh—it is never on the dealer's counter more than a day.

Whatever the reasons, we know that more and more women are buying Tip-Top Sandwich Bread Sliced every day.

Safe, Secure sanitary protection—that's Kotex

YOU should make certain—when you buy sanitary pads—that you are getting the safest protection possible. Protect your health. Assume your comfort. Feel well groomed, at ease. Be sure you ask for Kotex.

Kotex is soft, gentle, easy. And it stays soft. It absorbs laterally—that means greater efficiency—a greater area of protection than other types of pad give you. It gives equal protection, worn on either side. Of course, Kotex is disposable, too. That's why millions of women first abandoned old-fashioned makeshifts.

Hospitals use both Kotex and the delicate, efficient absorbent of which it is made. That should certainly recommend it for your use.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

The First Party

THEY got into the plane and flew to a place some distance away, landing on top of a house. Here the Little Black Clock left them to take a trip with the pilot. It was like another house they had visited long before when the Clock had turned the time forward. The front door was up near the roof.

They had evidently been expected, for the mother of the children who lived in the house met them and said to all the other children: "Here are my friends John and Peggy. I told you that I expected two new friends."

The other children made them quickly. Peggy particularly liked a little girl whose name was Minna, and John found a boy named Lena, and ever such good fun. They all played games when suddenly Minna said: "Now we must go to the second party."

"Oh, yes," said Peggy. "I heard there was to be another."

"There's to be a wonderful party right across the continent, and we can get there in a short time," said Minna. "I'll take you in my plane if you wish."

Just then Peggy noticed the refreshments were being passed around. That ice cream they had when the Clock turned the time forward always tasted as though made of some delicious cloud material.

"Oh, we don't want to leave quite yet," said Peggy. "We're having such a good time here."

They talked it over for a while. Minna couldn't bear to miss another party and Peggy thought a pity to leave when she was having such an excellent time. Minna left in her plane. Then Louis came along with John and said: "You may be late for the next one. Unless you're ahead of time you're behind time."

John laughed. The world in the future was quite funny, but he and Peggy stayed at the first party and so did some of the others, though mostly they went away to those who lived in the house met them and now came to this: What an idea, John thought.

"I have been successful, luckily perhaps, and I feel I can be again," she says.

THE ADVENTURE OF YOUTH

CHAPTER II

His eyes—she learned now that they were as spring skies, only they were blue as spring skies, when he mentioned Ran Gran. Then, when he slungly de acquaintance with Granby, they were second question, they were gay.

"You remember the first?" she asked. A long arm went around her waist; a massive hand gripped her fingers, and she was out on the porch again. She had been surprised at Granby's easy grace, but Frank Gardner was a revelation. She would have said that he was a shade too tall to be a perfect partner for her, but they had not one half round the floor when she realized that here was rhythm she had never encountered before.

Once during rehearsals of the play, that master of the ballroom dance, Del Rector, had lent attention with his partner and sized upon Donna merely because she was the nearest girl. She had danced five minutes with the star, she over her shoulder, he had dreamed instructions to his partner.

"See? Like this," he cried. "This girl follows me. You must do the same."

"Better team with her, then," he said. "I could do worse," said Rector. "You dance quite well," he told Donna.

BUT any of the chorus could dance equally well, if not much better. Donna knew. She could follow well enough, but that was all. But she knew when she was following genius. She was doing his now. The word genius was grotesque in its present application, she realized, but so, for that matter, was talent. Yet still was he ridiculously inadequate to describe Gardner's tersely-chosen gifts.

"Of course I do," said Gardner. "Don't you?" she asked. She had completely forgotten in the maze of thoughts that had followed her question, that she had put it. "My first proposal," he said. "Oh, you've wasted your youth," she charged.

"Not knowing you sooner and proposing before? Well, let's not waste the present and the future." "The way you dance," she exclaimed. "Now, come," he expostulated. "That's what I mean. Too good," she said.

"Natural gift," he said. "Developed by practice," she added. "Why not? I like to dance. Don't you?"

She nodded. "With me?" he whispered. "Young," she remarked. "Youthful impetuosity will carry a man farther than cautious middle age," he stated.

"You've found it so?" she asked. "I've only tried one. I haven't years enough to try the other—when I'm as old as Granby?" "You don't like him?" she asked. "Not around you," he explained. "He hasn't been around me," she said. "And if he had—"

"No concern of mine, eh? You're wrong there, Miss Raynor. Anything that concerns you also concerns me," he parried.

He deftly steered her to the edge of the floor, where, against a wall, in a recess formed by plants and tables, two chairs extended mute invitation.

"I put my whole case in one sentence the first time I saw you. And repeated it just now, the second time I saw you."

"You put it in the form of a question," she said. "You asked how I'd like to marry you. You didn't say that you'd like to marry me."

HE had lost his embarrassment. The now, this was a form of warfare in which he found himself at home. "I couldn't bear a refusal," he said.

"So you always ask the girl—this way?"

"Oh, always," he grinned. "There is, too, the thought that, putting it your unique way, the girl has not been proposed to. Is that in the juvenile mind, inspired by the youthful cunning?"

He shook his head gravely. "Suggested by the aged attorney of the Gardner estate," he said. "Breach of promise?" she asked. "Well, guessed," he laughed. "If you were serious," she said slowly, "you'd be?"

"Of course I would," he admitted. "A rotter. But as I'm CHAPTER EIGHT.

HIS eyes—she learned now that they were blue—were as changeable as spring skies, only they could be more lowering. A second ago, when he mentioned Ran Granby, they had been hard, almost menacing. Then, when he slungly derided her denial of long-standing acquaintance with Granby, they were mocking. Now, as he put his second question, they were gay.

"You remember the first?" she asked.

A long arm went around her

He would have said that he was while, over her shoulder, he had follow well enough, but that was all. But she knew when she was following genius. She was doing this now. The word genius was graceful in its present application, she realized, but, so for that nature, was talent. Yet skill was the rudimentary inadequate to describe Gardner's terpsichorean grace.

"Of course I do," said Gardner.
"Do what?" she asked. She had completely forgotten, in the maze of the dance, that she had followed him, that she had put it.

"My first proposal," he said.

"You've wasted your youth," he warned.

"Not knowing you sooner and

Training for the Job As Holland's Queen

Princess Juliana at the age of 3.

of Her Marriage Is Discouragingly Difficult.

companion one of her mother's ladies in waiting, and the necessary servants, together with a motor car. She enjoyed all this thoroughly, and began to live like the other students, going about the ancient city unattended, making friends with her fellow students and inviting them to her house. For the first time in her life she knew what it meant to be independent.

EVERYTHING came to an end, however, and the Princess had to go home, there to be again subjected to the austere discipline of which she had become so impatient in the past. The Queen, who does everything thoroughly, insisted upon her daughter being trained in domestic science. Juliana learned to bake cakes, to superintend her mother's kitchen and household, as well as the linen chest, which in all Dutch households is an important item. It was rumored that she had been given napkins to hem and garments to mend, an occupation for which it seems she had little liking. As for her cakes, they were not a success. It was alleged that dismayed at her failure to turn out fit-to-eat pastry, the Princess bribed one of the royal cooks to give her some of his own, which she passed on to her mother as her personal product.

Every summer the Queen and her daughter go abroad for a trip, and this is the only vacation allowed Juliana.
Otherwise her existence is scarcely one which a girl of her age would care to lead. The old Hague Palace was never a gay place, and although one or two balls and state dinners are given in its beautiful rooms every winter, yet the Princess Juliana is far from being spoiled in regard to amusements.

Of course, the question of her marriage has more than once been discussed. The country would like to see her safely established and with children of her own, but neither the Princess nor her mother appear eager for it. Juliana has always said that she would marry only for love, and Queen Wilhelmina is in dread of the time when her beloved child will no longer be exclusively hers; so that between them the question of the marriage of Holland's future ruler seems remote.

NATURALLY there have been suitors for her affection, and various eligible names have been mentioned; but so far the Princess seems to be heart whole, and not at all desirous to escape from her mother's roof and care.

At The Hague, and especially at Amsterdam, they say that what Juliana would like would be to marry into some great Dutch family, such as the Bentincks, the Schimmelpennincks, or others of the high nobility. Undoubtedly such an alliance would be popular throughout the Netherlands. But the Prince Consort of Holland has the prejudices inherent to German royalty, to which he belongs, and it would be hard to win his consent to his daughter becoming the wife of a simple gentleman. On the other hand, it may not be so easy for the Princess Juliana to find a suitable husband. He would have to renounce his own status and be known merely as his wife's husband—a position not every man is willing to accept. Several have been thought agreeable to it, such as the second son of Prince Erbach-Schönberg, whose mother, a Princess of Waldeck, is the niece of the Queen Mother of Holland; two Princes of Mecklenburg, cousins of the father of Juliana; and more recently the second son of the Crown Prince of Sweden. But these reports have been denied one after the other, and it is believed in well-informed circles at The Hague that the secret desires of Queen Wilhelmina is to see her daughter wed one of the two younger sons of King George of England. But here again one is confronted by the fact that it would be hardly likely any British Prince would renounce his birthright, even in order to marry the future Queen of Holland. Such a thing would be very severely judged in England, and it is not likely that King George could be persuaded to grant his consent to it.

PHYSICALLY, the Princess Juliana, without being regularly pretty, nor as good-looking as her mother was at her age, is decidedly attractive. She has a pleasant, open countenance, large and kind blue eyes, and a wealth of fair hair, which she wears unobbed. Her manners are charming, and her entire personality is in-gratifying. She is witty, her conversation is intelligent, and she possesses a healthy sense of humor. But she is still young, and in some things childish even for her age.
This is probably due to her strict education and the relative seclusion in which she lives. She loves all animals, rides well, is an excellent tennis and golf player, and an amateur in almost every kind of sport.

But, as we have already said, Juliana's is by no means an easy position, and it is not likely to become easier as the years go by, in case she remains unmarried, which is the one thing the Dutch people contemplate with misgivings.

ONE of the interesting personalities in Europe at the present moment is the young Crown Princess of Holland. If and when she succeeds her mother, it will be for the first time in the history of the world that two women will have occupied a royal throne in succession. This circumstance alone would have been sufficient to arouse public interest in the Princess Juliana, the only child of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands.

Thanks to this mother's sound common sense, the little girl was brought up in the simplest way, but under severe discipline. Every hour of her time had to be accounted for; and while her strength was never overtaxed, yet she was made to feel that she had no right to idle away her time. Her studies were carefully supervised by her mother and her grandmother, the Dowager Queen Emma, and they both tried to instill in the mind of the child a strong sense of responsibility.

When the great war broke out, in which it would have been so easy for Holland to get entangled, the Queen began to think that perhaps it would be as well if her daughter's education were completed in such a way that she might, if need should be, earn her own living.

"Thrones have become, today, an unstable thing," she told the little Princess. "You might find yourself, one fine day, without a cent in the world. Better be prepared for such an eventuality."

SO it was decided the young girl should go to the University of Leyden, there to study law, take her degree, and perfect herself not only in jurisprudence, but also in history and science. She proved an excellent scholar, eager to learn, thus fulfilling her mother's wishes.
Up to that time she had no establishment of her own,
a fact which had always been bitterly commented upon by the proud Dutch aristocracy, than whom none prouder exists, who had disapproved of the simplicity with which their future sovereign was reared. But when Juliana went to Leyden it became necessary that she should have a household of some kind. A large but by no means luxurious villa was rented for her, and she was given as

"Yes?" Her monosyllabic was a challenge.

"Granby."

"DISCARDED Mr. Granby?"

"Who told you I swore off? And on that date?" he cried.

"Well, didn't you?" she countered.

"I never was a drunkard," he defended himself.

"But you did swear off?" she persisted.

"Would you prefer me to drink?"

He lifted the champagne glass to his lips. She could not fail to see the sudden dilation of his eyes, as though the pupils actually widened. She felt a sudden disgust with him. Up to now it had been all gay and inconsequential and pleasant. She liked flirting with an attractive man, and was not wholly inept in the practice.

"In about one minute more, Donna Raynor," he said, "I'm not going to ask you how you'd like a proposal. I'm going to propose."

"And in about a minute and a quarter you'll be able to hear me telling you that I'm not having any," she laughed.

"Oh, come now," he remonstrated.
"You mean to tell me that you wouldn't?"

"What makes you think I would?" she demanded, in a surprised tone.

"Why—er—"

"I'm afraid you are a rotter, after all," she said. "Do you imagine that all girls?"

"Why, yes, I do," he said. The simplicity with which he made the statement robbed it of offensiveness.
"After all, when one has—as much money as I have—"

"You'd need more," she said.

"I could get more," he grinned.

She liked the way he shifted from seriousness to gaiety. Nevertheless, he was—well, rotten inside.
Men didn't look upon themselves as great catches—not decent men
—at any rate.

"I'm afraid we're not getting on so well," she said.

"I thought we were," he objected.

"You were wrong," she told him.
"And I want you to stop sending me orchids."

"I'll not send them; I'll bring them hereafter," he smiled.

"No, I think not," she said. "I don't want you to call."

"Why?" he asked.

"I don't think I like you," she answered.

"What on earth have I said? Or done?" he cried.

"It's what you are," she explained.

"And you're able to discard people because you happen to think they aren't—what's the matter with me?"

"Let's not debate," she said. "As for discarding people—one doesn't discard strangers."

"I saw you discard an old friend tonight," he charged.

"About your age, isn't he?" she

Her query was as weighty as one of those straws."

"Good-by," said Gardner. "And when I say good-by I mean good-

"I didn't think you meant

Poor wit, but it served.
In high dudgeon, more noticeable because he tried to hide it, Gardner strode away. Even young Blais-dell, so immersed in love that he could hardly see any one but Donna, stared after Gardner.

"Now, who died and cut Frank out of the will?" he asked.
